Taiwan Bitter Over Nixon Agreement To Pull Troops

Bagley To Seek Another Term

WILLIAM T. BAGLEY
Announces candidacy

Veteran Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, today announced his candidacy for reelection to the Seventh District seat he has held 11 years.

"One of the most important and all-pervading issues facing all of California," said the 43-year-old Bagley, "is the total reform of education finance, long needed and now required by the California Supreme Court."

Such reform he said, "will provide significant property tax relief and insure quality education, which itself will go a long way to solve the problem of the poor and minority-impacted schools."

A former chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, Bagley, who represents Marin and Sonoma counties, is chairman of the newly created subcommittee on School Finance and of the Assembly Welfare Committee and a member of the Ways and Means, the Planning and Land Use and the Manpower Development Committees.

A native of Woodacre, the lawmaker is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and a senior partner in the San Rafael law firm of Bagley, Bianchi and Sheeks.

In the 1971 legislative session, Bagley-sponsored bills provided Marin with more than $750,000 for costs incurred in the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee cases, reformed welfare, instituted withholding for state income taxes, granted senior citizens $56 million in tax relief, reimbursed local government for open space exemptions and eliminated racial imbalances in schools.

Bagley was voted Most Effective Assemblyman by the Capitol press corps, Assemblyman of the Year by the California Trial Lawyers Association and received the First Annual Award by Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalism society, for his legislation furthering freedom of information in government.

He lives at 1 Fawn Court, Sleepy Hollow, with his wife, Diane, and five children.

Stop In Alaska For Rest

ANCHORAGE (UPI) — President Nixon is on his way home from China and "the week that changed the world."

His "Spirit of '76," jetliner returned Nixon to American soil shortly after 5 a.m. EST today when it landed at snow-covered Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage.

A motorcade whisked him to the home of Lt. Gen. Robert Ruegg, the U.S. Alaska military district commander, for a nine-hour rest before Nixon leaves Alaska for tonight's arrival at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

The jetliner flew over the North Pole from Shanghai where the President and Chinese leaders Sunday announced the result of their week of talks.

Nixon and his hard-bargaining ideological opposites from Peking agreed upon exchanges of visitors, trade and ideas.

But Nixon made a major concession to the Communists which undercuts his nationalist Chinese ally, Chiang Kai-shek, and casts a cloud over the future of the "other China" on the island of Taiwan, 100 miles offshore.

No comparable concession from the Chinese was apparent.

Nixon feels that more important than the document he and Premier Chou En-lai produced in 18 hours of taxing private discussions and 14 more hours of informal contact is that the effort has started "to build a bridge across 16,000 miles and 22 years of hostility."

Nonetheless, Chiang, leader of 15 million Chinese and Taiwanese, who still speak of liberating the mainland of 800 million people, are profoundly affected by Nixon's promise in the communique to remove some of the 9,000 U.S. military, mostly airmen, stationed on Taiwan and ultimately to withdraw all U.S. forces. Informed sources on Taiwan said the United States is considering cutting the 374th Tactical Air Wing, an Air Force unit which supports U.S. forces in Southeast Asia.

Nixon's view, as reflected in the communique and its acceptance of the principle of "peaceful coexistence", was that Taiwan's future is a matter for the Chinese to settle —so long as the solution is peaceful, not military.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security adviser and his most intimate counsel during the talks with Chou, said the 16-year-old U.S. treaty commitment to defend Taiwan was not mentioned in the communique —a silence that stung the Nationalists — because of the delicacy of the issue.

Nixon's evaluation of his trip as "the week that changed the world" came in a banquet Saturday night in Shanghai, relaxed and convivial after the diplomatic chores had been done.

Nixon had been up until 5 a.m. Saturday (Peking time) working with Kissinger on the communique. Nixon and Chou left it to aides to put the final touches on the document, but they kept in close contact with the progress.

In the document, a U.S. President for the first time has endorsed the five principles of "peaceful coexistence" which were laid down in a 1955 conference of Asian and nonaligned African nations. They include "respect for the sovereignty and territorial integration of all states" —the language Peking employs to make its claim on Taiwan.

The communique is divided into five sections:

—A general statement that "earnest, extensive and frank" talks were held which both sides found beneficial "after so many years without contact".

—An outline of the U.S. position supporting "individual freedom and social progress for all the peoples of the world free of outside pressure or intervention" and calling for a negotiated solution in Vietnam on the basis of Nixon's latest eight-point proposal.

—An outline of the Chinese position supporting "the struggles of all the oppressed people and nations for freedom and liberation". China expresses "firm support" for the Viet Cong and their seven-point peace program, supports North Korea's plan for Korean unification and denounces "the revival and outward expansion of Japanese militarism".

—A recognition of the differences in social system and foreign policy of China and the United States and a review of "long-standing serious disputes" between the two on "the Taiwan question".

—A statement of "immediate understandings" on an expansion of trade, an exchange of scientists, sports figures, artists and journalists and on continuing diplomatic contacts and visits to Peking by a "senior U.S. representative" from time to time for consultations. Also stated are some mutually shared principles —the desirability of normal Chinese-American relations, a rejection of world or Asian domination by either country and a desire by both to "reduce the danger of international military conflict".

Seeking to lay to rest Soviet suspicions, the communique rejects collusion between major countries against a third country or for the division of the globe into "spheres of interest."

Each side also sought to reassure its small allies in Asia by promising not to barter away their futures. China and the United States pledged not to enter into agreements with the other which would affect third countries.

But on the key issue of Taiwan, there was no meeting of the minds.

The key passage here read:

"The United States acknowledges that all Chinese on either side of the Taiwan Straits maintain there is but one China and that Taiwan is a part of China. The United States government does not challenge that position.

"It reaffirms its interest in a peaceful settlement of the Taiwan question by the Chinese themselves. With this prospect in mind, it affirms the ultimate objective of the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and military installations from Taiwan. In the meantime, it will progressively reduce its forces and military installations on Taiwan as the tension in the area diminishes."

In contrast, the Chinese said:

"The government of the Peoples Republic of China is the sole legal government of China; Taiwan is a province of China . . . the liberation of Taiwan is China's internal affair in which no other country has the right to interfere; and all U.S. forces and military installations must be withdrawn from Taiwan."

'Asians Must Unite'

TAIPEI (UPI) — The Nationalist Chinese government issued a bitter statement tonight on President Nixon's visit to the Chinese mainland but stopped short of accusing Washington of selling out its Asian allies.

"Countries in this area must rely on their own determination and strength and spare no efforts in consolidating the unity and cooperation among themselves," the Foreign Ministry said in a formal statement.

It appeared to be referring to the paragraph of the Shanghai communique which said the United States would ultimately withdraw all U.S. forces from Taiwan and Southeast Asia.

Government spokesmen refused to answer any question on the document.

Asian nations "should not entertain the slightest illusion of coexisting peacefully with the Chinese Communists," the statement said.

It reaffirmed a previous declaration that Taiwan considers "null and void any agreement which has been or which may not have been published, involving the rights and privileges of the government and people of the Republic of China."

The Nationalists also vowed to continue to fight to return their government to the mainland and overthrow the "rebel group" in Peking.

The nationalist statement, issued by the Foreign Ministry after 24 hours dicussion of the communique, said:

"According to President Nixon, he made the trip to the Chinese mainland with the hope that it might bring a generation of peace and relax tensions in the Asian and Pacific region. Actually, the effects of President Nixon's visit are diametrically opposite to what he expected, and the countries in the Asian and Pacific area will be among the first ones to suffer from its aftermath."

The statement called on the countries in the area "to rely upon their own determination and strength and spare no efforts in consolidating unity and cooperation among themselves. They should not entertain the slightest delusion of coexisting peacefully with the Chinese Communists."

Much of the Foreign Ministry statement was devoted to a restatement of principles of the Nationalist government.

It reiterated the stand it took before Nixon arrived in Peking, to the effect that it will "consider null and void any agreement . . . involving the rights and interests of the government and the people of the Republic of China, reached between the United States and the Chinese Communist Regime . . . because the regime now occupying the Chinese mainland is a label group whcih has no right whatsoever to represent the Chinese people."

NOVATO CONGRESS

More Air Service Studies Demanded

By JEFF GREER

The Novato Community Congress has demanded further study of Marin County's need for commercial air service before any further commitments are made for joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base.

The group also said it wants the Novato City Council airport committee to learn federal attitudes about the base's future, and wants the city and county to draft a joint powers agreement giving the city veto power over any proposals for the air base.

The air base's future dominated discussion Saturday at the second annual congress, although there also were panels on open space, housing and taxes. The airport-industrial development panel drew the largest share of the congress's 108 participants, and centered so much on the Hamilton issue that industrial development was mentioned only as an afterthought during the final session at which more than two dozen resolutions were debated. Most were approved.

The congress adopted resolutions calling on the city to support "a reasonable increase in a tax for the acquisition of open space" and for "master planning . . . including provisions for open space and discouraging the concept of spot zoning or limited rezoning as a device for selective economic gain."

Another resolution called on the city to make permanent the five neighborhood committees that last week finished reviewing the city's general plan, to deal with future problems.

The congress members turned down a resolution asking the county to acquire open space either through a regional park district or by the existing county parks and recreation department. Another loser was Marin County Historical Society president Frank Galli's plea that Indian Valley Colleges be renamed Ignacio Valley College.

After adopting housing panel resolutions calling for providing a variety of housing for all levels of income and for studies of the impact of future developments on the city, the congress voted down a resolution for preserving the existing ratio of single-family to multiple dwellings in any future building in the city.

The air traffic study was demanded although Walter Gilfallen reported such a study had been made by the regional airport study committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments, a study in which he had participated.

Gilfallen was one of three members of the Congress's airport-industrial panel from outside Novato. The others were J. Richard Mettler, Los Angeles

Israeli Invaders Returning Home

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli forces which struck into Lebanon for the fourth day today in defiance of a U.N. Security Council resolution have begun withdrawing, Israel Radio said tonight. It reported between 50 and 60 guerrillas killed and 60 to 70 wounded at a loss of five Israelis wounded.

At height of the operation the Israeli tanks and infantrymen supported by air power occupied 40 square miles of Lebanese territory on the slopes of Mount Herman near the borders of Israel, Lebanon and Syria. They burned and blew up houses thought to house Arab guerrillas who have struck into Israel.

"Israeli tanks, army, infantry and engineering units are on their way home," Israel Radio reported.

Radio Israel said the operation reached its climax today with massive artillery barrages and aerial bombing of guerrilla targets in the so-called "Fatahland," an area of southern Lebanon where an estimated 5,000 Al Fatah guerrillas are camped.

UPI correspondent Abdul W. Hajjaj, reporting from the Lebanese village of Ebl Es Saqi overlooking the action, said Israeli engineers drove a road through the mountains today, apparently to facilitate their troop movements.

By late afternoon, he said, the Israelis had withdrawn from two of the five villages they occupied Sunday and early today, firing their tank cannon into village houses as they went. He said it was not immediately clear if the Israelis were pulling out completely or regrouping.

Israel threatened on Jan. 14 to occupy parts of southern Lebanon permanently if the Lebanese government did not force the guerrillas to halt their attacks across the border into Israel. The current Israeli action—largest since the 1967 Six Day War—was triggered when guerrillas killed an Israeli couple and a soldier in ambushes late last week.

Several thousand refugees were reported streaming out of the area on the slopes of Mount Herman near the borders of Israel, Syria and Lebanon, and in Beirut other thousands of refugees demonstrated to demand weapons to use against Israel.

Beirut Premier Saeb Salam met in emergency session with his cabinet to discuss the four-day offensive. At the same time, Al Fatah leader Yasser Arafat met with Arab ambassadors and asked for aid from the Arab nations against Israel.

Political sources in Beirut said official quarters were discussing a possible amendment to the Cairo agreement of Nogember 1969 which would more strictly restrict the activities of the guerrillas. Another political source said Beirut may ask for a United Nations force to be stationed at the border.

The official Israeli announcement on the raid said the Israeli armored and infantry forces hit terrorist bases in the area between Kafer Kok and Yanta. Kafer Kok is 23 miles north of the border and Yanta is 30 mipes north of the border.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mercy Killings

LINCOLN CITY, Ore. (UPI) —Gov. Tom McCall has proposed that the State of Oregon study the possibility of legalizing mercy killings so sick, elderly persons can choose "death with dignity" instead of "life as a vegetable."

McCall said many elderly persons fear "leading their life a long time in a hospital, possibly unconscious and with a great deal of pain . . . doing nothing, no hope, no enjoyment of life."

To be able to choose life or death legally is "a need that is so agonizingly overwhelming in the minds of the elderly," the 59-year-old governor said.

"I'm old enough to understand the fear," he said.

McCall made his suggestion in a speech to 400 liberal Republicans attending a week-end conference which considered such controversial issues as legalization of marijuana, amnesty for draft evaders and a state lottery.

Election Readied

ROME (UPI) — President Giovanni Leone dissolved parliament today, setting the stage for the first premature national election in Italy since 1924.

The decision came after six weeks of deadlock and confusion which saw two governments fall, one of them lasting only eight days.

Leone signed decrees dissolving the senate and the chamber of deputies after summoning acting premier Giulio Andreotti to the Quirinale presidential palace.

Andreotti's minority all-Christian Democrat government resigned Saturday night one hour after it was defeated in the senate on a vote of confidence.

Liz In Tears

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — Richard Burton drove away Elizabeth Taylor's tears with a birthday gift of a lover's diamond.

Burton gave his wife the heart-shaped diamond pendant at a $72,000, star-studded party Sunday to mark Miss Taylor's 40th birthday.

Earlier, Miss Taylor burst into tears after one of the guests, who jetted to Budapest from all over the world, insulted her.

John Springer, Burton's press spokesman, said British writer Alan Williams walked up to Miss Taylor during pre-party drinks and demanded to know why no Hungarians had been invited to the party.

Williams, author of a book on the 1956 Hungarian uprising, reportedly asked Miss Taylor: "Don't you know what happened here in 1956?"

"Williams made some very insulting remarks. Liz burst into tears and Dick got very angry," Springer said. Later Williams apologized.

Pay Cut Or Layoff

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The city's 2,300 police and firemen reported to work today to find ballots asking them to choose between a voluntary 10 per cent salary cut or a layoff of 561 persons.

The ballots were rushed into print Sunday night on orders from Mayor Ralph Perk, who said one of the alternatives was necessary to make his budget austerity program work. If the voluntary pay cut was refused, said Perk, 162 firemen and 399 policemen would be laid off.

Perk got permission to impose the pay cuts Sunday when two members of Ohio's Eighth District Court of Appeals overruled a lower court's ruling that forbade the city to enact the cuts. The appeals court said it would hear formal arguments March 20.

Prison Rescue

NEW YORK (UPI) — A force of 150 correction guards stormed a barricaded cell block at Rikers Island Juvenile Prison Sunday and rescued five guards who had been held three hours as hostages, four of them with nooses around their necks.

More than 100 persons were injured, including 27 guards.

The unarmed guards, including Capt. Roy Caldwood, were overpowered by a group of prisoners about 3 p.m. as they were removing two inmates from Cellblock 7 in preparation for court appearances today, Correction commissioner Benjamin Malcom said.

They were rescued three hours later after tear gas was thrown into the cellblock and guards with nightsticks entered. Inmates and guards fought hand-to-hand.

Hoffa's Desire

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa says he would like to return to a position of power with his old union, once he is out from under the parole restrictions imposed on him after his four years in jail.

Before that time, he added, it is "just absolutely not true" that he is already running the nation's largest union from behind the scenes.

Hoffa was interviewed in the plush apartment where he has been living with his ailing wife Josephine since shortly after he was released from prison before Christmas on a commutation from President Nixon.

He has talked freely with reporters since his release, but this marked the first time the former truck driver indicated he wanted to return to a leadership position with the Teamsters. He did not specify what position.

Night Clashes

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops and gunmen clashed during the night and early today. A bomb blasted a pub owned by a former European bantamweight boxing champion.

No one was injured in the bombing that wrecked Freddie Gilroy's pub at Donaghadee, on the Irish Sea west of Belfast, Sunday night, a British army spokesman said.

Army patrols traded gunfire several times with attackers during the night and early today on Belfast's eastern outskirts and in the Roman Catholic Andersonstown district, the spokesman said.

Work Return

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's 280,000 coal miners returned to work today to end a seven-week strike which crippled British industry, threw two million persons out of jobs and left the country partially blacked out.

The back-to-work action meant that freshly mined coal soon will start reaching power plants. But National Coal Board officials said it will be weeks and possibly even months before coal production returns to normal since a number of coal faces collapsed while abandoned during the strike.

Trial Lawyers Back Death Penalty Move

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A resolution commending the State Supreme Court's decision to strike down the death penalty was passed by the California Trial Lawyers Association Sunday.

About 400 attorneys of the 4,000-member association attended the annual meeting and easily passed the resolution, which lauded the court for its "courage" in the blow against capital punishment.

WRECKAGE -- Buffalo Creek flows on through the wreckage of the small Logan County community of 100 in West Virginia. A flash flood rushed through Buffalo Creek Valley Saturday. The toll today climbed to 61 dead. At least 300 others are missing.

(UPI Telephoto)

61 Die After Coal Dam Bursts, Floods Valley

MAN, W. Va. (UPI)—When the lights went out in their homes, the miners of Buffalo Creek valley knew what that meant—the coal waste dam holding a mile-long, rain-swollen pool of water at the head of the steep, narrow valley had given way.

Picking up mud, rocks, cars, bridges, people, parts of houses and whole houses as it roared down the 18-mile-long valley where 6,500 persons lived in 14 mining communities, the 30-foot-high wall of water swept one small town off the map Saturday and piled debris 10 and 20 feet above some of the bridges which span the valley. Gov. Arch Moore declared it a disaster area and President Nixon, in China, promised federal aid.

By today, 61 bodies had been recovered from the planks and mud; 300 were missing; and 4,000 were homeless.

National guardsmen today searched the wreckage of every house for more bodies.

"It was like an ocean," said Mrs. Roy Deese, who escaped with her husband and three daughters from their home at Stove, two miles below Lorado, the town which was destroyed. "There were waves tossing all over.

"I saw one of my neighbors in her yard when the water hit. In a minute, she was waist deep and she ran back into the house to the second floor. I saw her at a second-story window and in a few minutes the house was gone."

Albert Kilgore of Lorado which had 700 or 800 residents, watched from a hillside as a man ran back to untie a dog from a stake.

"The water just swept over him. His mother was standing on the porch. We couldn't get to either of them before the house was washed away," he said.

Mrs. Naomi Hall lives atop a hill at Robinette and can see seven miles along the valley.

"We stood on our porch and watched seven miles of what used to be homes for a lot of people go by," she said.

Yemen Battle Held Led By Americans

BAIHAN, Southern Yemen (UPI)—American military personnel are directing several thousand mercenaries in a desert war aimed at toppling Southern Yemen's government, according to Information Minister Abdullah Khamri.

Newsmen were taken to this outpost near the border with Yemen over the weekend to view American weapons the government said were captured in the latest fighting last week.

Khamri said Southern Yemeni troops routed 2,000 mercenaries who attempted to capture Baihan. The mercenaries—Arab tribesmen armed with curved desert knives, mortars and bazookas—roared across the desert in 100 bright red Ford pickup trucks, but were bloodied in several hours of fighting, the information minister said.

They retreated, leaving 67 dead and a stockpile of weapons and trucks.

"Fighting has increased sharply since October," Khamri said at a briefing for the newsmen, who were flown to Baihan in a Russian-made aircraft piloted by three Soviets. "We have captured documents which prove American military instructors are directing the mercenaries."

Cove Sewer Funds In The Legislature

Upgrading of Angel Island's Ayala Cove sewer system will be one of several projects undertaken if the state Legislature passes a $6.75 million allocation from the Bagley Conservation Fund.

According to Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, the Reagan administration supports the allocation now before the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Included in the proposals is $173,100 to upgrade the present sewer system at Ayala Cove on Angel Island to meet Regional Water Quality Control Baord standards; $350.00 for a land purchase next to General Vallejo's Sonoma home "to protect the setting... from pending development" and further development of camping facilities along the Sonoma Coast has also been proposed, with $200,000.

Earthquake Strikes Bear Valley Area

HOLLISTER, Calif. (UPI) - moderate earthquake struck the Bear Valley area along the San Andreas Fault Sunday, jolting the sarsely populated farming area but causing little damage.

The quake was measured at 4.5 on the Richter Scale by the University of California seismographic station in Berkeley.

Several hundred youngsters are expected to participate in the Marin County 4-H Club field day at Novato High School starting at 9:30 a.m. next Saturday.

The morning session will consist of a series of demonstrations of skills, with activities both outdoors and indoors, according to Lois Dimmick, publicity chairman.

There will be a talent show in the school gymnasium at 1 p.m. with Julie Barboni and John Leas as masters of ceremonies and after the show awards will be presented.

Demonstrations will cover food and nutrition, clothing and creative needlecraft, home furnishing, livestock. Small animals, agricultural engineering and public speaking.

The basic curriculum in Moroccan schools emphasizes religion, the Arabic language and arithmetic.

Cab Drivers Reject Giving Up Pay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Yellow Cab drivers Sunday refused the firm's request that they give up a portion of their pay or fringe benefits in an attempt to alleviate some of the company's financial woes.

Local 295 voted overwhelmingly to reject the company's suggestion of a cut in health or pension benefits or in the percentages of the fares the cabbies keep. Company spokesmen said losses would equal $1.1 million at present fare schedules.

Man Held In Heroin Probe

A Woodacre man was booked into Marin County Jail Saturday on suspicion of possessing heroin.

Dennis Clark Pfennig, 22, of 137 Central Avenue, was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court Monday.

Marin County Sheriff's deputies said they stopped Pfennig's vehicle at about 3:25 a.m. on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Lagunitas, after a routine traffic violation.

A brown bottle containing a white powder suspected of being heroin was found in the car, deputies said.

Adjourned Session

Corte Madera Planning Commission will reconvene an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the Town Hall City Chambers. Commission members will discuss the Marin county-wide general plan.

Congress: Further Air Service Study Demanded

International Airport manager, and Ben Ostlind of San Rafael, longtime booster for commercial airline service at Hamilton.

Ostlind won a partial victory despite nearly solid opposition to any plans for Hamilton during the panel session. He persuaded the congress to adopt a resolution calling for all committees studying the airport problem to "study all aspects before expressing strong stands."

He complained that "I have 75 per cent of all the data that's ever been gathered" on proposals for Hamilton, but "nobody has asked me for any of it."

Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest said the panel lacked time to discuss industrial development questions as originally planned. He successfully introduced a resolution calling for the Novato airport committee to study "other alternate uses for Hamilton Air Force Base. There are all kinds of things — industry, a university campus, a combined community college site, a ferry boat terminal, public golf course" or other possible futures for the more than 2,000 acres at the base, Forest said.

Although the theme of the congress had been billed as "taxes and alternatives," no resolution directly mentioned tax issues. The resolutions adopted will be presented to the Novato City Council.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, principal speaker, called on Novato citizens for better "community communication" to enable him to better represent the Fifth District.

He said he wanted to see creation of "an interaction committee" of project-oriented groups and issue oriented groups, with which he would meet at least once a month.

Baptiste also urged citizens to tell their views at the March 6 hearing on the Indian Valley specific plan, the Novato Creek ordinance before the city council Thursday and the supervisors March 14; and on future debates of other issues including the air base, open space and Petaluma River recreational use.

Lucas Valley Planning: A Joint Move

Owners of undeveloped land in Upper Lucas Valley agreed today to work with nearby residents in planning future development so that the picturesque hillsides are preserved.

San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi, representing several owners of large property, told the Marin County Planning Commission that his clients were willing to hire an outside planning firm which would work with residents in deciding where future development should go.

Preservation of the hillsides ad the ridgetops as open space has been the center of discussion for months by the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association, which had requested the area be rezoned to low-density residential use.

The area under consideration totals 2,914 acres and lies on both sides of Lucas Valley Road from the county's juvenile hall to Big Rock.

At Bianchi's request, the planning commission continued the proposed rezoning for six months pending the joint study by residents and property owners.

"My clients have told me they intend to preserve the hillsides for all time," Bianchi said, adding that it would take six months to draft plans showing what areas should be preserved and what areas developed.

Other property owners, not represented by Bianchi, said they supported the proposed plan and agreed not to submit other development plans for at least six months.

Earlier in the hearing, the planning department had recommended the area be rezoned to low-density residential use based on unstable geological conditions and severe slopes.

Bianchi told the commission he hoped to have the proposed use plan ready for submission at its Sept. 11 meeting.

Heart Fund Drive Nets $18,000

Volunteers who visited their neighbors yesterday in the annual Marin residential drive for Heart Fund collected more than $18,000 for the County Heart Association.

The amount turned in by 11 p.m. at Crocker Citizens Bank was $2,000 more than collected last year on Heart Sunday.

Blue skies and warm weather found many residents away from home. Mail-in envelopes were left and it is expected the "not at home" donations will swell Heart contributions during the next week to 10 days, said association director Don Reuter.

Yet to report were some area captains in West Marin, parts of San Rafael and Southern Marin.

Close to 2,500 volunteers worked yesterday as in past years. The one-day solicitation benefits the month long Heart Fund Campaign held each year during month of February.

San Franciscan Booked On Pot

A San Francisco man was booked into Marin County Jail today on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

Richard John Paugh, 27, was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

San Rafael police said they stopped Paugh at 2:40 a.m. after they saw two men standing in front of a Francisco Boulevard auto dealership, and Paugh running down nearby Bay Street.

The trio said they were looking for a service station, and the other two men were released. Paugh was arrested, however, when police found a pipe and what they believed was marijuana in his coat pocket.

Master Plan On Marin City Agenda

The Marin City Council will continue its discussion of the Marin City Master Plan at 8 p.m. today in the Manzanita Center, council chairman Samuel L. Banks Jr. reported.

The council will also set a date for a council election, according to Banks, who said five seats will be up for election.

Teachers' Request

The Lagunitas School District board will consider a request by teachers to set up formal policy development meetings and review the need for additional printing equipment at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley Elementary School.

How Short Hair Became Popular

CHICAGO (UPI) — Military technology 500 years ago brought a shift against long hair for men.

Through history the amount of hair that was stylish for a man to have on his head has varied, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

In 14th century Europe locks were long. However, development of armor in the 15th century stimulated a switch to short haircuts because the buildup of heat under the helmet was uncomfortable.

They No Longer Steal Just Fruit

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)— Florida citrus growers used to record large losses to fruit thefts but in recent years the thieves have turned away from the fruit and increasingly to grove equipment, says Florida Citrus Mutual, a growers' cooperative.

Larry Thompson, director of Mutual's fruit protection division, says figures for the 1969-70 citrus season showed growers lost more than $116,590 in stolen equipment, an increase of 155 per cent over the previous year. But fruit thefts for the season were down to less than $2,000.

Scroll Of Esther

'Brief' Job Lasted Awhile

By C. P. McCARTHY

What started for Douglas H. Johnson of Fairfax as a temporary three-month job in 1934 ended Saturday with his retirement from the San Anselmo Post Office.

In running his "temporary job" to almost 38 years, Johnson retired with the longest service record of any postal employee in Marin County.

He started as a special delivery messenger, getting paid nine cents for each letter he delivered by bicycle, and ended his career as assistant postmaster of the San Anselmo office.

Johnson, 54, of 60 Live Oak Avenue, witnessed many changes in postal operations during the years, but the major changes, he told the Independent-Journal, have occurred in the past two years.

These changes, he said, have been primarily increased use of new equipment in large "sectional centers" around the country, speeding the handling of mail. He cited national figures for the onslaught of mail during the past Christmas season when, he said, the volume of mail increased 3.8 per cent over Christmas 1970, but manpower hours were down 6 per cent and overtime hours down 24 per cent.

Johnson's recollections of his years of service take him back to his days as a mail carrier when his route included a portion of Red Hill Avenue, which has since been renamed Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Johnson recalls delivering mail to homes on both sides of the avenue by crisscrossing back and forth across the street — an almost impossible feat with the heavy traffic that travels the thoroughfare today.

The San Anselmo Post Office had nine employees when Johnson started his career as a 17-year-old Tamalpais High School graduate. It has 40 employees today.

Beginning with his special-delivery bicycle routine, he worked as a carrier, clerk and superintendent of mails before being named assistant postmaster in 1953.

During World War II, he served four years in the Navy, working with Naval Intelligence in San Francisco.

An assistant postmaster, under San Anselmo Postmaster John Fahy, Johnson supervised the superintendent of mails, and clerks and carriers working out of the San Anselmo office.

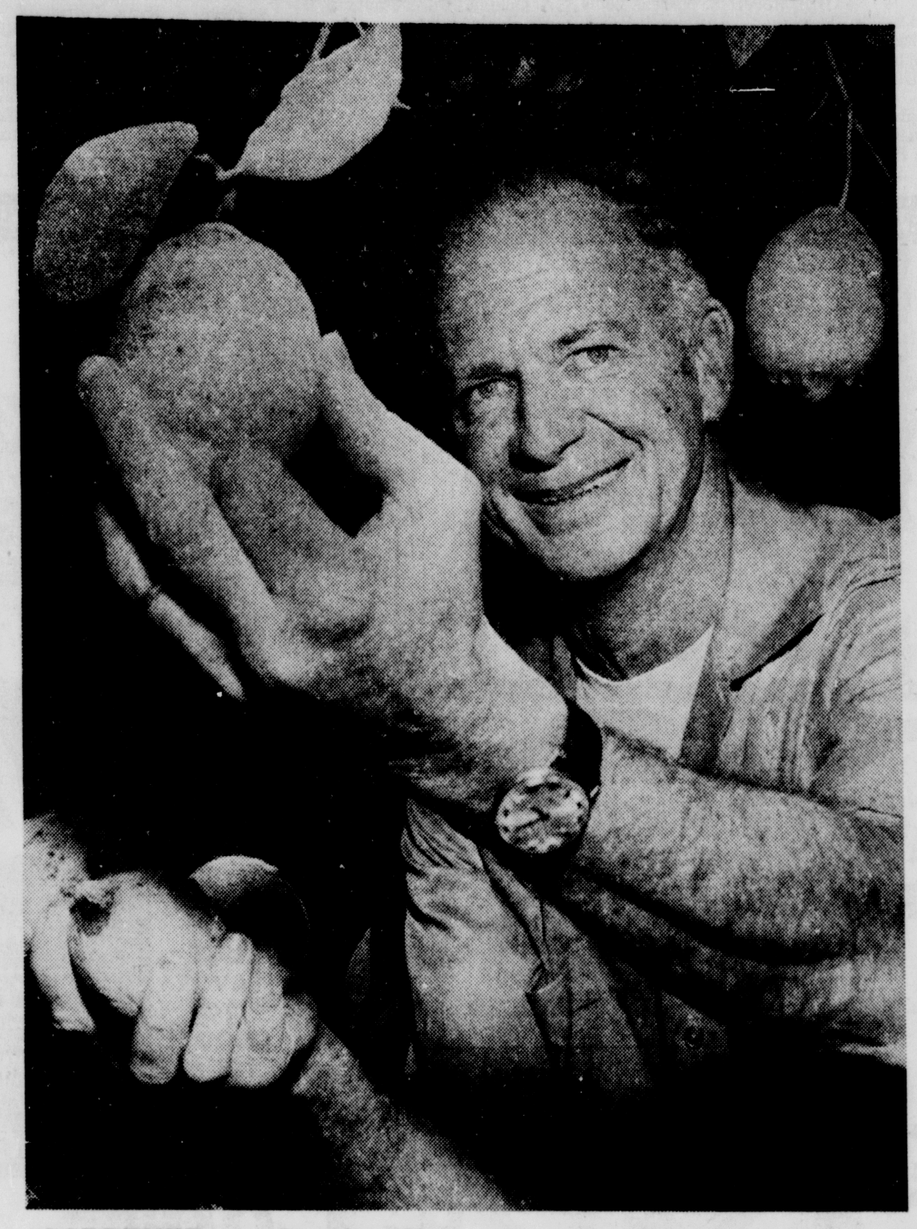

Among problems faced in the postal service are deciphering handwriting and persons not using zip codes. "Get in a plug for that zip code," he said.

Another is the legendary conflict between mailmen and dogs. Johnson said it was no mythical joke. "We've had some real bad bites from dogs," he said, criticizing "inconsiderate" people who allow dogs who bite to run free.

Every time a carrier is bitten by a dog, the owner claims the dog had never flexed its jaws before, Johnson said.

Johnson was born in San Francisco, but has lived in Marin County since he was 13 years old. He and his wife, Shirley, have three grown children — Mark, Paul and Marsha, all of San Rafael.

While he says he plans on doing "nothing" for awhile, he will keep busy. Planned already are trips to Hawaii, Alaska, New Zealand and Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming. And in between "nothing" and the traveling, Johnson said his avid interest in gardening "will be the redeeming factor."

GARDENER — Douglas H. Johnson examines lemons growing in the garden of his Fairfax residence. Johnson retired Saturday after almost 38 years with the San Anselmo Post Office and said gardening will be the redeeming quality of his retirement.

FTC Charges Publisher With Book-Sale Deception

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today accused a leading publisher of deceiving buyers of the Harvard Classics and Colliers Encyclopedia.

The FTC said the firm, Crowell Collier and Macmillan of New York, also used deceptive advertising to hire door-to-door encyclopedia salesmen.

The Harvard Classics is promoted as a prestigious 22-volume set of classical literature. Advertisements offer the fist three volumes for $1 each, the FTC said, and promise that customers can decide — one by one — whether to buy the other 19 volumes.

Actually, the FTC said, Crowell Collier ships the other 19 volumes in one bulk shipment, whether the customer asks for them or not, and then demands payment of $3.98 per book.

The agency said Colliers Encyclopedia customers signed up for 10 annual yearbooks at a prescribed price, but were billed for $1 more than the contract price when the yearbook was shipped.

Many customers don't notice the price hike, the FTC said. Some were sent form letters explaining the increase with this note:

"Frankly, this is an appeal to your sense of fair play. Naturally, we will accept payment of a dollar less if you feel that we should be held to our original agreement."

The FTC said Crowell Collier recruited encyclopedia salesmen with ads for "administrative assistants" or "marketing-public relations" personnel.

The ads offered salaries of $130 a week or $620 a month, the FTC said, but applicants were offered door-to-door selling jobs on commission only.

The FTC told Crowell Collier it could agree to stop the alleged practices without admitting guilt, or contest the case before a federal hearing examiner.

Nancy Reagan Supports California Abortion Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The wife of Gov. Ronald Reagan says she supports California's abortion law in present form because it is "based on the moral principle of self-defense."

"It recognizes a mother's right to take the life of the unborn child if there is clear evidence it threatens her own life or health," Nancy Reagan said Sunday.

However, in her latest question-and-answer column carried by the Sacramento Union, the state's first lady said the law "has been terribly abused."

She said abortion is an age old problem which has been "aggravated in the last few years by a humanist philosophy and permissiveness which would have us discard the moral values we've achieved over several thousand years of the civilizing process."

Then, warning against liberalized abortion laws, Mrs. Reagan said that to take an unborn life "simply as a matter of convenience opens the possibility of establishing a precedent with horrifying possibilities."

Second Language Will Be Learned

BONN (UPI) —Every 10-year-old school child in West Germany will be learning a foreign language by 1975 at the latest, according to Hildegard Hamm-Bruecher, State Secretary in the Ministry of Science and Education.

Teachers from English-speaking countries probably will have to be brought to West Germany in order to meet the goal the government has set, Frau Hamm-Brucher said.

English is the favorite second language of West German School children, with French a poor second, she said.

A Simulated Path For Alaskan Herds

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Animals on Alaska's North Slope are responding about as expected to a simulated pipeline across their migration route, according to oil industry sources.

The stimulated line consists of 9,400 feet of fence covered with burlap and containing spaces for the animals to travel over and under as wildlife experts watch. A report is expected soon saying caribou will use underpasses and overpasses such as those planned for the pipeline from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez.

Car Radio, Jacket Reported Stolen

A $65 car radio and $100 jacket were stolen from a car in the parking lot of the Cinema Theater in Corte Madera yesterday while the car's owner was watching a crime thriller in the movie theater, according to police.

Corte Madera police said the thief broke a wing window, cracked the windshield and pulled out wires under the hood of the car of Larry T. McArdell of 15 Marian Court, San Rafael.

BUT SHOULD IT?

Expert Says World Can Support More People

By MARC NURRE

Contrary to what "scare" authors would have us believe, the world can support many billions of persons more than it does now, according to Dr. Noel-David Burleson, anthropologist and member of the Population Institute of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

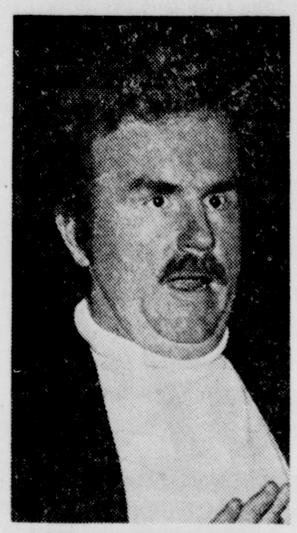

But should it? That is the question which he and his organization attempt to answer during frequent speaking engagements primarily in the United States.

He is concerned with population education — the building of an awareness in people of how their own numbers affect their lives.

"The real object of population education is quality of life," he said, speaking to a group of educators Saturday at the Mill Valley Library.

"It's obvious that the United States, in terms of resources, could take care of 300 million people a lot better than India could take care of 500 million," he said. Present U.S. population is just over 200 million.

But, he said, in order to support the present U.S. population, this country is using 40 per cent of the world's resources. It's obvious, according to Burleson, that this can't continue.

NOEL-DAVID BURLESON
Population expert

It's true, he said, that 80 per cent of the people in this country live on two per cent of the land. But because it takes so much land space to produce the materials and products necessary to support so many people, the rest of the unoccupied land can't simply be carved up and used as housing space, he said.

His organization, he said, is trying to promote a "world civic awareness" of the problems engendered by a growing world population, not simply to convince people to have fewer children.

In schools today, when the problems are taught, he said, "kids want solutions. We don't have the solutions." But the contemplation of the problems is of benefit, Burleson said.

The world has a choice, he said, of either continuing with the present rapid population growth, with all the problems connected with that, slowing the growth and helping the situation a little, or stablizing world population and running the risk of economic chaos.

The world's present population is about 3.6 billion, he said, and it could support up to 40 billion — at subsistence level. But that great a population is going to cause problems, both in its demands for supplies and because of the pressures of living together.

"If we want to live in a more peaceful world" he said, "we'd better develop a universal environmental awareness," he said.

Lagoon Plan On County Board's List

The Bolinas Lagoon Master Plan, required by the state to protect the ecological balance of the lagoon, will be considered tomorrow by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Review of the plan is scheduled for 8 p.m. during the board's once-a-month "swing shift" session, slated to begin at 1:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the supervisors' regular Civic Center meeting room which underwent remodeling this month to correct wiring deficiencies and place the dais on rollers.

The Bolinas Lagoon plan was considered several weeks ago but was continued to tomorrow when questions rose on the extent of Army Corps of Engineers' dredging.

The plan was developed by the county's parks and recreation department and calls for maintaining the lagoon as an ecological preserve.

Some recreational facilities, such as observation points and picnic areas, would be created around the picturesque lagoon under provisions of the plan.

Also on the agenda:

VILLA MARIN — A master plan for the 95-unit addition to the Villa Marin apartment house development in Tamalpais Valley. Plans have been approved by the planning commission but the Tamalpais Community Services District and county public works department have recommended rejection based on inadequate road and parking patterns.

CONDEMNATION — A request from the Strawberry Recreation District for the power of condemnation. The board has refused the request on two earlier occasions since the district has not spelled out why it needs condemnation authority.

CARE PROGRAM — A request from Parents of Schizophrenic Young Adults that the county sponsor a plan for residential care of mentally ill young persons and financial support for residential care facilities.

RECREATION — Proposed state legislation for creation of a countywide park and recreation district along the lines of the county flood control district. Under the legislation, the county — with voter approval — could subdivide itself into zones which would work independently to acquire open space and recreational facilities.

School 'Warm, Friendly' In Jersey — Exchange Student

A Redwood High School student who participated in a six-month exchange program with a school in New Jersey found at the East Coast school a more "warm and friendly atmosphere" than exists at Redwood.

Arla Norton, 16, a junior, writing for Redwood's news bureau, said the differences probably resulted from differences in the sizes of the schools. Highland Park High School has an enrollment of about 900 students, Miss Norton said. Redwood has about 2,500.

"Redwood is so big, kids don't take time out to talk to each other.

"I got the impression that people honestly care about one another" at Highland Park, she said.

Both Miss Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Norton of 117 Sycamore Avenue, Larkspur, and Judy Buell, also 16 and a junior at Redwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin A. Buell of 482 Montecito Avenue, Corte Madera, attended Highland Park for the fall semester and returned home earlier this month. Two students from Highland Park attended Redwood for the semester, part of the Redwood student exchange program.

Miss Norton said students at the New Jersey school appeared to have more respect for their school and its facilities than do Redwood students.

"Library tables aren't carved up and bathrooms stay reasonably clean," she said, adding it was a far cry from the situation at Redwood.

Discipline was tighter at Highland Park, she said, and she liked it. "It made me find out what's ahead, like in college, which Redwood doesn't prepare you for," she said.

"Highland Park still incorporates a bell system. Students aren't permitted to run free in the hallways, and the pressure for grades, competition for college and the grading system are much harder.

"Redwood's atmosphere is much more relaxed," she said.

Hearings On Busing Open; Celler Vow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House hearings opened today on a proposed constitutional amendment to end forced busing, with Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., promising to seek the best answer "for the benefit of all Americans."

Southerners seeking a ban on busing condemned it "obviously wrong" and as "madness."

Celler is chairman of a Judiciary subcommittee conducting the hearings. Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, senior GOP member of the subcommittee, joined him in calling for careful consideration of the issue. "We must clear the air of irresponsible rhetoric", said McCulloch. "The welfare of the nation requires that we refrain from playing politics with constitutional rights."

Celler gave no assurance the house subcommittee would agree with the scores of House members who lined up to argue that a constitutional amendment was the best answer to the busing problem.

Celler, who reluctantly yielded to political pressure in calling the hearings, conceded the "nation confronts a crisis".

"The subcommittee will address itself to the problem of finding the most efficacious answer to this complex social and legal problem for the benefit of all Americans," Celler said in a prepared opening statement.

Congressmen preparing to testify and their aides nearly outnumbered spectators at the sparsely attended opening hearing. An unusually heavy contingent of police was on hand outside the hearing room while plain clothes officers were stationed inside.

The lawmakers were ready to testify during what may turn out to be three weeks of hearings by the House Judiciary Committee on the busing controversy. The question was temporarily put aside in the Senate but was likely to take center stage again later this week when that chamber resumes consideration of antibusing amendments to a big education bill.

The House panel, chaired by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has for several years received proposals to change the Constitution to deal with busing. But today's hearing, with 29 lawmakers scheduled to testify through Tuesday, marked the committee's first public examination of the issue.

Two southern congressmen, in prepared remarks for the hearing, set the tone of testimony expected from busing foes.

"To consume resources of time and money for busing for the purpose of achieving racial balance, is so obviously wrong, meaningless and unproductive; it is a void, demeaning. It is mercurochrome when the need is penicillin," said Rep. Jack Brinkley, D-Ga.

"Let us begin today to chart a clear course that will preserve public education in America and provide new and improved educational opportunities for all our children without the madness of cross busing," added Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C. Celler said the hearings would last at least through the first two weeks of March with additional congressmen, government officials and spokesmen for private groups for and against busing invited to testify.

Although Celler promised the House earlier this year that he would seek a "rompt conclusion" to the hearings, he has set no date to end them and have his panel vote on the estimated 50 to 60 constitutional proposals referred to the committee.

All but two of the House members listed for the opening two days of hearings—Reps. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, and Bob Casey, D-Tex. — have signed a petition to force an amendment authored by Rep. Norman F. Lent, R-N.Y., out of Celler's committee to the House floor for a vote. The Lent discharge petition has 146 of the needed 218 signatures.

Street Sale Price Raised

The street sale price of the Independent-Journal was raised Saturday to 15 cents.

Monthly home delivery cost will be increased, from $2.25 to $2.50 beginning Wednesday.

Vernon Paris, I-J auditor and controller, said the price of the newspaper was raised in order to cover increasing operating costs.

"The cost of newsprint is up and we anticipate salaries will be increased the maximum allowable under the wage-price freeze," Paris said.

He said I-J advertising rates are also being increased.

300 Sign For Pro-Pot Law

College of Marin students seeking to legalize marijuana gathered about 300 signatures in four days toward a statewide requirement of 325,000, according to student body president Gregory C. Fearon.

He said about half the signatures were gathered at concerts Friday and Saturday nights.

Those favoring legal pot are trying to qualify an initiative for the November ballot.

Angela Davis Trial Is Underway After A Delay For Conference

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Angela Davis went on trial today on murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges in the 1970 Marin County courthouse shootings.

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason gaveled the packed courtroom to order at 10:16 a.m.

The trial opening was delayed 46 minutes by a conference with attorneys in Arnason's chambers.

Then Arnason returned to announce that "the people's case against Angela Y. Davis, Case No. 52613" was ready to begin.

He asked chief defense attorney Howard Moore Jr. if he was ready for trial.

"We are, your honor," Moore replied, and the trial was under way.

The attorneys, including Miss Davis herself, who is a codefense counsel, were closeted with Arnason shortly after the trial was to get under way at 9:30 a. m.

The courtroom was packed with newsmen and spectators for the expected opening, after months of legal delay, of Miss Davis' trial on charges of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy.

Miss Davis is accused in connection with the Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County courthouse shooting in which a judge and three black prisoners were killed and a deputy district attorney was paralyzed for life.

Miss Davis, wearing a dark blue minidress and staring straight ahead, entered the courtroom shortly after 9 a. m. accompanied by Jarvis Tyner, the Communist Party's candidate for vice president of the United States.

Security was the tightest ever seen in a California courtroom. The whole criminal courts building was surrounded by a high chain link fence, patrolled by sheriff's officers.

Everyone entering had to go through a metal detector and was fingerprinted and photographed.

Potential jurors were hidden from public view by a curtain along the outside of the building as they walked from the veniremens staging area to enter the courtroom.

The first panel of 150 prospective jurors, based on voting registration, was to be brought today to the two-story, brown brick courthouse in San Jose's modernistic civic center.

There are only 64 seats in the superior court, 30 of them occupied by the news media, so most of the prospective jurors will have to be held in a staging area.

Security for the trial— expected to cost taxpayers $1 million— was stricter even than the Sirhan Sirhan and Charles Manson cases with 30 extra sheriff's deputies on duty.

Miss Davis, former assistant philosophy professor at UCLA, has been free since Wednesday night on $102,500 bail. She is staying at a private residence in the San Jose area and spent much of the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Sally Davis, a schoolteacher who came here from their childhood home of Birmingham, Ala., for the opening of the trial.

Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr., a special assistant in the California attorney general's office, has listed 109 persons who may be called to testify.

They included witnesses to the Marin County shooting in which Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley died, gunshop owners who will testify to Miss Davis' purchase of the guns brought into the courtroom by 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson, and a gasoline station attendant who allegedly saw Miss Davis in the civic center the day before the Aug. 7, 1970 incident.

Chief defense counsel Howard Moore said the state has no evidence to show that Miss Davis at any time or on any occasion performed a criminal act.

The recent California Supreme Court ruling striking down the death penalty, which led to Miss Davis' release on bail, may shorten jury selection since citizens need not be questioned on how they feel about capital punishment.

But the picking of a jury may go on for perhaps a month because of defense objections that the case has had such notoriety that few people have not formed an opinion.

Judge Arnason has not ruled whether the final jury will be locked up during the trial, another factor in a proceeding whose length is estimated at from four to nine months.

Acting as her own attorney, with the court's permission, Miss Davis is in the position of being able to question prospective jurors, make opening and closing statements and corss-examine witnesses. It is considered almost a cinch that she will take the witness stand.

One of the prime defense arguments is that such an educated person as Miss Davis would scarcely be inclined to participate in a scheme to take hostages and free the "Soledad Brothers," one of whom, George Jackson, 29, was the brother of Jonathan.

Harris, on the other hand, is expected to produce among the hundreds of items of evidence "loveletters" between George Jackson and Miss Davis.

Fate Of Teachers Likely Tonight

The fate of four or five teachers who may be the victims of declining enrollment may be settled by the Kentfield School District board at its regular meeting at 8 p.m. today at Wolfe Grade School.

Before discussing the matter in closed session, however, the board will hear a proposal from the Wolfe Grade School staff to keep all teachers for their innovative staffing plan.

The board must act by March 15 to dismiss teachers for 1972-73.

Among other items is an evaluation of the afternoon program at Wolfe Grade which offers more electives.

Adjourned Session

The Marin County Board of Education will hold an adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today at the county schools office in Corte Madera to review eight special education programs.

Councilmen Pay On Tiburon List

An ordinance to establish $150 monthly salaries for Tiburon city councilmen will be considered by the council at 7:30 p.m. today in its chambers, according to City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer.

The council will also hear a preliminary proposal by a city engineer for a realignment of Tiburon Boulevard to alleviate a bottleneck near the street's intersection with Trestle Glen Drive, Balmer said.

The realignment would require city purchase of adjacent land and rebuilding of the intersection, according to the city manager.

In other business, the council will discuss Balmer's proposal to grant the Mill Valley Refuse Service a 15 per cent hike in garbage collection rates in the city and a recommendation that Tiburon acquire the ground floor of an office building adjacent to city offices for use for police quarters.

Fog Slows Water, Road Traffic

On-again, off-again fog yesterday slowed traffic around the Bay Area and sharply curtailed pleasure craft outings. This variable character was caused by intermittent winds, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Meteorologists said winds would disperse the fog for awhile, then die and allow it to reform, then start blowing again. The winds were not part of a weather front, according to the bureau, but were part of what is called a "microscale phenomenon," meaning they were confined to the bay and were unexplained.

The fog caused many pleasure boaters from Sausalito to spend the day in Richardson Bay rather than venture out into San Francisco Bay where the fog was thickest. And other yachtsmen were harborbound around the bay.

Traffic on Marin's highways was slowed by dense fog during the morning.

WANTED POSTER

Marie Eisen staples a poster to a Woodacre store's wall. The poster tells the story of the fatal shooting of Miss Eisen's dog and seeks information on the dog's killer. The dog, a poodle named Sam, was shot five times while playing in Laurel Canyon last Monday. Miss Eisen, who lives on Upper Pine Avenue in Woodacre, said other dogs have been shot in the Woodacre area, and she has begun putting up posters in stores to warn community residents, as well as in an effort to find the gunman who slew Sam.

Tax Saving Shrinks When Plan Analyzed

Those who are hoping for adoption of the Watson Amendment in the belief that it will drastically reduce their taxes may be in for disillusionment.

The amendment, which has qualified for the ballot, would limit the property tax to 1.75 per cent of market value — which would be a rate of $7 per $100 assessed valuation on the current 25 per cent assessment ratio.

Very few areas in Marin County now pay this little. So on the face of it, the Watson Amendment would lower tax bills.

IT IS NOT, however, quite that simple.

Along with the over-all limit, the amendment sets limits for various types of taxing entities: $2 per $100 assessed valuation for counties, $2 for cities, $2 for schools, 50 cents for all intra-county special districts combined, 50 cents for all inter-county special districts. These add up to $9 rather than $7, so obviously not all could tax to these limits.

The $7 is not an absolute limit, however. The amendment would permit additional taxes to fund bonded indebtedness.

The amount this would add would vary widely from dislrict to district. For most Marinites, it probably would be somewhere between 50 cents and $1.50 (mostly for school bonds).

This would leave the total rate still lower than it is now for most of us, but not so much lower.

LET'S TAKE A LOOK at this year's tax rates for a San Rafael resident, for purposes of comparison.

The total property tax rate is $10.844 — or $1,084.00 on property with assessed valuation of $10,000. The county rate is $2.89; city, 90 cents; intra-county districts total 61 cents. The only inter-county district (air pollution control) levies just 1.9 cents.

But San Rafael residents pay a total rate of $6.73 for schools — San Rafael Elmentary and High School Districts and Marin Community College District. This is more than three times what the Watson Amendment would permit.

TO MAKE UP the loss in property taxes, the amendment calls for increasing the sales tax by two cents, jumping the cigarette tax by 10 cents per pack and the tax on liquor by 50 cents per gallon, plus imposing new taxes on mineral extraction.

A non-smoking, non-drinking Marinite who now pays $180 per year in sales tax (about the average according to Internal Revenue Service tables) would pay $250 instead, an increase of $70 — equal to 70 cents on the tax rate for owner of property assessed at $10,000. The drinker and smoker, of course, would be hit harder.

But the $7 limit does not include public debt retirement. For the San Rafael taxpayer, this represents a tax rate of 55.3 cents (44 cents for schools, 7.3 for the county, 4 cents for the city).

This, plus the additional 70 cents represented by sales tax increase, would bring the rate equivalent to $8.253 — still considerable savings from $10.844.

HOWEVER, ACCORDING to an analysis prepared for the State Assembly, the Watson provisions would fall one and one-quarter billion dollars short of making up the property tax loss throughout the state.

So to raise that one and one-quarter billion, the Legislature could be expected to increase the state income tax.

And we 're right back where we started!

MORE HATS IN RING?

Peevey Eyes Fourth District County Supervisor Race

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Speculation is getting hot that Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael will run for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District to replace retiring incumbent Louis H. Baar.

Supervisorial elections are nonpartisan, but Peevey is remembered best for his 1970 state Senate campaign as a Democrat against Republican Peter H. Behr of Tiburon. Peevey ran by far the best Democratic campaign seen in Marin for many years, and would be a formidable candidate for supervisor.

Peevey is playing it cool so far, but certainly is aware that the filing period for the June primary closes at the end of next week.

His biggest problem probably is Gary Giacomini, who willingly gives the impression that months ago he preempted the field of many who would have backed Peevey.

Peevey also knows that the name of the game in politics is survival. A man with political proclivities must keep himself before the public, otherwise he is forgotten quickly. A stale politician is worse than last year's bagel.

ANOTHER MAN being pushed for elective office is William R. Lucius, a Healdsburg city councilman and Golden Gate Bridge District director. Some Sonoma Republicans have shown their interest in having him run for the Assembly seat of retiring incumbent Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka.

But others question whether Lucius, at 56, is not already too old. The power that comes with seniority would be several terms into the future, they caution.

Anyone who knows Lucius, of course, knows age has left virtually no mark on him. He may be 56, but he also is a retired Marine colonel — and the benefits of 25 years of rigorous service still show in his bearing.

If Lucius does not make the race, it will be because he enjoys public life too much in Sonoma and the Bay Area, where he serves on several regional agencies.

SAN FRANCISCO Republicans must have been exceedingly unhappy over the selection of delegates to the GOP National Convention from the Sixth Congressional District. Somewhat more than half of the district is in San Francisco, with the rest in Marin — yet all three regular delegates are from Marin: National Committeeman Thomas Reed of Ross, Paul Haerle of Mill Valley, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

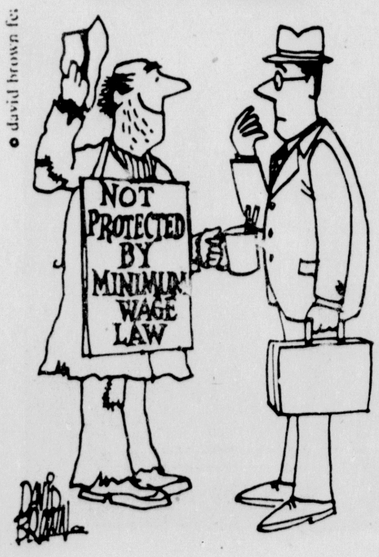

SAN ANSELMO City Councilman James F. Reed III already is campaigning quietly to replace Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks as Marin's city representative on the board of directors of7the Bay Area Pollution Control District.

Hicks automatically will lose his seat on the sensitive regional agency because he is retiring in April from the city council.

Reed has been an outstanding member of the district's advisory council, which works out new regulations for the district board. He does his homework diligently, and consistently shows his independence of the district's hidebound staff.

Reed, of course, first must win re-election in his city's election in April.

Wonders About Cost Of Death Penalty Ruling

Regarding the recent Supreme Court decision on capital punishment:

Would it be possible to get an estimate on the cost for each person in prison for life?

This would include board and room, clothing, medical and dental care, an education that can take them through college, new prisons to house them, extra guards, recreation facilities, attorney and court costs in some cases, and of course this should take into consideration the rising costs of everything each year, and the long-drawn-out court costs.

We are told the cost of educating each of our children in school, so I thought it would be just as interesting to the taxpayers to hear what we will be expected to pay for life imprisonment for capital offenses.

Quotation Applied To Rick Beban's Case

I am writing in response to the story of my friend, Rick Beban and the grand jury. Headlines and incomplete understanding lead to much confusion nowadays about why citizens seem to go out of their way to stir the pot and make waves. Perhaps this will help some to understand. I do not know the author.

"You may tell me that my views are visionary, that the destiny of this country is less exalted, that the American people are less great than I think they are or ought to be. I answer, ideals are like stars, you will not succeed in touching them with your hands; but like seafaring man on the desert of water, you choose them as your guide and following them, you reach your destiny. Our country right or wrong, —when right to be kept right, when wrong to be put right."

And therein lies the duty of each one of us.

MAN BITES DOG

"Your kids go to private school, too. I can't understand why you aren't for busing."

Ticket To Grounds Better Than Knot Hole

So Mr. President has gone to China, some don't like it, some do, I like it. When I was a little boy I lived in the Middle West, in a college town, the University of Indiana. In the baseball and football season some of us kids had a knot hole we could see through. Now you take five kids trying to see a game through one knot hole, it is hard to do. So I went to see the ground keeper, so he told me where to go and who to see, so I did. So by shagging baseballs in batting practice, help carry in dirty towels after the football games, I was given a pass to the games. I could see the games with a clear view. I am sure Mr. President did not have to shag baseballs or carry dirty towels to get a better view, so he has done what he thought was the right thing to do to get a better view.

Like my Dear Aunt Sally said to my uncle many years ago, "You will never know where good buys are till you look for them."

Why Four Dancers Made Select Group

I read with delight your item about four Marin Ballet students being selected to appear in "Etudes" with the American Ballet Theater on Saturday in the Opera House. Since the story did not come from the Marin Civic Ballet Association, I was tempted to track it down.

Your readers might be interested to know that the news story came from the John Kornfeld Associates and the ballet mistress of the American Ballet Theater. They were interested in the fact that out of 20 young bay area student dancers, only seven were chosen, four of the seven coming from San Rafael. They were curious about this large proportion coming from the same place. Upon investigation, they discovered all four were training with Leona Norman, a Marin County teacher for the last 23 years.

It is upon this kind of record that the Marin Civic Ballet Association based its decision to hire Leona Norman as the director of its new non-profit ballet school.

Dogs Attack Fawn; Owners To Blame

This is a plea to those who enjoy or reside near the Marin Water District land. Last Saturday we were riding our horses along a trail, we were followed by two dogs whose owners live nearby. The dogs persisted in following despite our attempts to discourage them. When we had not seen them for some time and presumed they had returned home, they reappeared, chasing a fawn past us. We took off after them; when we caught up the dogs had it in a creek and were attacking it.

We were in time to save it from being killed, but one hind leg was broken and badly mutilated. Two of our party went ahead to summon the Humane Society while four boys hiking there fixed a splint for the deer and carried it in a split burlap sack to where the Humane Society was waiting to take it to a vet. We later found the deer had died when we rode to Lake Lagunitas and saw it where it had been placed beside a sign asking that dogs be kept on leashes. Had these dogs been confined rather than allowed to roam, the fawn would be alive and happy in its habitat.

. . . This incident is far from rare. Many, many deer are killed each year in the water district by dogs. The blame goes to the owners who are responsible for their dogs' actions when they fail to control them.

Please, people — don't let your dogs roam the water district.

Cultivation Of Peking Brings Quick Harvest From Moscow

Even before Premier Chou En-lai and President Nixon sat down for their first feeling-out talk, the journey to China was a success.

Peking was already bearing fruit — in Moscow. A considerable harvest of fruit; enough so that whatever emerges from Peking will be like frosting on the cake.

AS THE DAY approached for Nixon to fly to China, the Russians began to show their concern. They started doing things about it.

Their objective: To show to the United States that it could get more from Moscow than from Peking, that co-operating with Russia would pay better dividends than co-operating with China.

Moscow's opening gesture was threefold:

1—Assurance that a nuclear arms agreement, satisfactory to the United States as a good beginning, will be ready for Nixon when he gets to Moscow.

2—Readiness to undertake joint U.S.-U.S.S.R. health and environment research.

3—A move to begin at once to settle the sizeable Soviet lend-lease debt of World War II.

Behind the Peking summit was the conviction that detente with the Chinese would improve the climate for negotiating with the Soviets.

It is quickly doing so.

HOW FALSE NEWS GROWS: Stage one: NBC's Barbara Walters in one of her early telecasts from Peking said she thought that Nixon would not have provided such elaborate TV coverage if he had known that he was going to get such a cool reception on arrival.

Stage two: Soon an ABC broadcaster in the United States picked up and distorted what Barbara Walters had said. He put it out that Miss Walters had reported Nixon had said that. In its first form it was her own thoughts, not the President's.

Nixon had said nothing about the reception, and subsequent events showed notable Chinese cordiality.

TUG-OF-WAR ON BUSING IN NIXON ADMINISTRATION. All agree that the situation won't be left as it is.

Here agreement ends. There are deep differences over whether to move to end enforced, long-distance busing by legislation or amendment.

HEW Sec. Elliot Richardson is letting it be known that he is prepared to resign if the President presses for a constitutional amendment.

WALLACE SHIFTING STRATEGY. Governor Wallace is veering away from a third-party bid. The reasons:

As a third-party candidate he is weaker in the South than in 1968. There is evidence that he might not be able to carry more than one southern state.

The pollsters figure that nationally Wallace's 1968 vote would be halved.

He doesn't want to take any chance that his third party would help elect the Democratic nominee.

If Wallace makes another third-party race, this will split the Democratic vote. If he doesn't run, he will openly campaign against the Democratic candidate. Nixon can't help but benefit.

John Mitchell, the President's campaign manager, is convinced Nixon can carry the entire South this fall. This would give him 130 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win.

Russians Ready For Agreement On Strategic Arms, War Debt

MOSCOW — On the one hand, Marshal Andrei Grechko, hero of the Soviet Union and minister of defense, marks the anniversary of the Soviet Army with muscular words about United States imperialism and the accompanying need to strengthen Russian military forces. On the other, the next scheduled great event in international affairs is a summit meeting of avowedly peaceful intentions between Mr. Nixon and Marshal Grechko's superiors.

It may seem incompatible. But on the contrary, tough talk from the military is as much a tradition on Russian holidays as the troops falling out on Manyezh Square in the sifting snow, forming up into columns of platoons, their white gloves arcing in unison as they do their semi-goosestep toward ceremonies alongside the Kremlin wall. Grechko's remarks may sound strong, but only relatively, because the everyday Soviet line has moderated since the years when his predecessor, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, used to serenade passing rockets with lyrics of thunder.

THE FACT IS that now, even before the full results of the Nixon trip to Peking are known, knowledgeable opinion here expects solid outcome from the Moscow summit. Grechko's statement of last week and other outcries about the alleged Chinese-American frame-up against the Soviet Union all are considered — along with the parallel requests for higher arms spending by Melvin Laird — in this advance estimate of the Nixon-Brezhnev/Kosygin talks:

1 — The hardest bargaining will lead to an announcement of some agreement on strategic arms limitations, though not necessarily a final treaty. Laird's and Grechko's rumblings are classic tactics as such negotiations head into the crunch. There is much less chance of substantive agreement on mutual balanced force reductions, because the Russians fear this would push too many of their divisions out of Central and Eastern Europe.

2 — The best opening for improvement in the general Soviet-American atmosphere will be through economics. The Russians are now prepared, after 27 years, to discuss their vast World War II lend-lease debt to the United States — although the sides are still hundreds of millions of dollars apart. Compromise on this should clear the way for extension of hard-money credits to the Soviet Union through the Export-Import Bank, for example.

That, in turn, will allow the Russians to make greater investments in foreign technology, including foreign participation in the giant Kama River truck factory complex this side of the Ural mountains. They already are enjoying playing off eager American, West European and Japanese businessmen against each other as those competitors seek entry into this and other Soviet developments.

THE RUSSIANS are expected to press for a formal trade agreement which fits into their planned economy but is less familiar to American business. Maurice Stans, then secretary of commerce, came here for the signing of $125 million in contracts with several American firms last fall.

Beyond strategic arms and trade, where some limited but definite results are anticipated, the President and the Soviet leaders will cover broad ground where the prospects are not so solid.

In the Middle East, for example, both sides are deeply involved but their confrontation is not at first hand. They could achieve some tentative agreement on arms limitation there, but anything affecting the Israeli-Arab dispute is effectively subject to veto by Premier Golda Meir and other interested parties on the scene.

There already has been some conversation, but not agreement or even negotiation as such, on the growing intrusion of the Russian navy into the Indian Ocean — which like other such steps demands an extension of American forces to match or at least watch it. Further dialogue about that is probable.

That the Russians are approaching these summit talks with Mr. Nixon at all is ironic after they snubbed him so calculatedly in earlier years, before he was elected. The controlled press still voices suspicion of him, asserting as some American commentators have that his whole summit itinerary is merely part of his r-election program. Nevertheless, and largely because he was shrewd enough to agitate them by visiting China first, they are ready now and waiting with dotted lines for him to sign on.

New Oil Wealth Bait For Junta In Ecuador

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The bloodless coup which overthrew the government of chronically poor and chronically unstable Ecuador scarcely would be noteworthy except for one thing.

That is that Ecuador, with a population of less than 6 million, is about to become South America's second largest oil producer, and thus a juicy plum for anyone occupying the seat of power in Quito, the capital.

The initial flow of oil through a 330-mile pipeline from the Amazon region over the Andes to the Pacific is expected to come to 400,000 barrels daily and the total output to bring in at least $120 million a year.

SINCE WORLD WAR II, Ecuador has existed on a banana economy. That crop last year brought in $100 million or approximately half of the national budget.

It is not difficult to visualize the impact an additional $120 million will have on the economy, or the scramble that must ensue for its control.

A look at Eucador's background is worthwhile.

Since achieving independence in 1830 Ecuador has had 17 constitutions.

Its last elected president, Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, won elections five times but served out only one full term. A silver-tongued orator, he has been in and out of exile so many times that he found it worthwhile to own an apartment in Buenos Aires. He is there now.

Since June 22, 1970, Velasco had ruled as a dictator under the friendly eyes of the military establishment which now has thrown him out.

He was said to have promised the military a large portion of the oil revenues to do with as it wished.

A similar sum was supposed to have gone into rural electrification.

THERE APPEARED, however, to be no real planning to make use of the new income, and partly as a result economic conditions have become even more chaotic than usual. Real estate and food prices have shot skyward.

Since the military takeover in midmonth there have been few real indicators of the future.

Within days of taking over, the ruling junta itself underwent an internal shakeup, with changes in the air and naval representatves.

It appeared that both Velasco and the military opposed the probable election of another silver-tongued orator, Asaad Bucaram. Velasco described him as a "killer" but refused to put off June elections. The armed forces apparently feared the sweeping reforms promised by Bucaram.

Bucaram currently is in hiding.

GEN. GUILLERMO Rodriquez, junta leader, has declared its aims to be "social justice and redemption of the humble," presumably meaning the Quechua-speaking Indians who make up thsbulk of the population.

Presumably it also means a nationalistic, leftist rule on the pattern set by the military rulers of Peru. It is not expected to ease the tuna fishing war which has strained relations between the United States and Ecuador.

From The Revolution To Management Spot

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PEKING — Wang Hsu, the "responsible member" for the Shi Tan vegetable market stood passively while answering our question.

Please ask him how he was able to get such a good job, we asked our interpreter.

When this was relayed to him, the manager, as Americans would call him, smiled for the first time. "I was a clerk in a private store. The revolution came, and I was put in charge."

Wang runs an efficient shop, if our short stay was not deceiving. It was orderly. All prices were conspicuously posted. There was everything from carp from nearby lakes to live turkeys, roosters and hens, and canned pork.

It was definitely in the supermarket category, one of some 1200 food stores of varying sizes in Peking. It was a bit disconcerting while pricing the pickles to have roosters crowing in our ears.

Escapting to the rear of the store we came upon the Chinese version of a TV dinner. Under a glass counter was an array of platters, each laden with three portions of food.

The one with peas, pork, and a preserved vegetable which our interpreter couldn't identify cost one-fourth of a yuan. We have learned just enough about Chinese salaries to realize that this is somewhat of a luxury dish.

The average worker earns about 60 to 70 yuan a month. Normally 10 to 15 yuan is allotted for food. A worker thus couldn't buy many of these dishes without shooting his budget full of holes.

But the 70 yuan a month probably goes farther than one might expect. Housing for a normal family, for instance, is only about two yuan a month.

Wang tells us he tries for about 10 per cent gross profit, if everyone heard everyone right through the interpreter. Profits go to the state, anyway.

Where does Wang get food for the store? For the communes he explains. He contracts with communes to sell all the products from a certain acreage of land. Prices on some products are seasonal, and he cuts prices if there is danger of spoilage, he said.

Our trip to the food store during the talks here is one of many arranged by the People's Republic of China. We are accompanied by interpreters, generally one to every two correspondents. In one morning we went in quick succession from Wang's palace of food to the Summer Palace where emperors and empresses went to avoid the heat of summer.

The Chinese interpreters are unfailingly polite and helpful.

But what they think of the free-wheeling U.S. press corps can only be guessed.

After a few days they began turning the tables on the correspondents and asking some questions about the United States. It is then that one is made doubly aware of how difficult it is to explain one's own country to a foreigner.

How much does an average worker in the U.S. earn, we were asked? I couldn't even figure what kind of worker in the U.S. represents the average.

Here almost everyone is average except high government officials. That seems to be one of the greatest prides of the Chinese and the basis of their hope to make their country as a whole above average.

Teen-Ager Slain At Drug Party

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A high school student was fatally shot Sunday after an argument at a drug party, police reported.

Donald Fontenot, 18, was killed when a bullet struck under his raised right arm and pierced his lung.

Fontenot was at the home of Marvin Evans, 18, and was with some other friends when Evans' father, Sylvester, came home and found his son and Fontenot in a heated argument.

The older Evans said Fontenot emerged from the bathroom with a small knife. He told police he warned the boy to drop the knife, then finally drew a .32 caliber revolver and fired.

Evans was booked .on a murder charge.

Parade Climaxes New Year Fete

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A block-long golden dragon snaked its way through the narrow streets of Chinatown Saturday night as a traditional parade climaxed a week-long celebration of the Chinese New Year.

Police estimated that 250,000 spectators turned out to watch the 75-unit parade, which included a 60-foot-long Hong Kong dragon, celestial lion dancers, elaborate floats and animals symbolizing the years on the ancient Chinese lunar calendar.

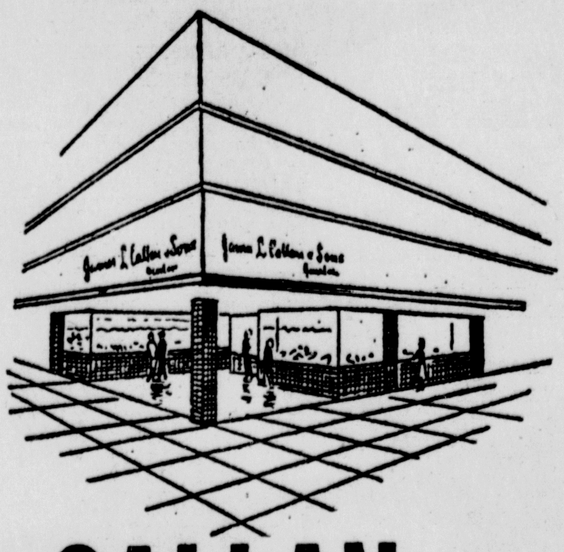

Thousands of firecrackers exploded along the parade route to "ward off the evil spirits."

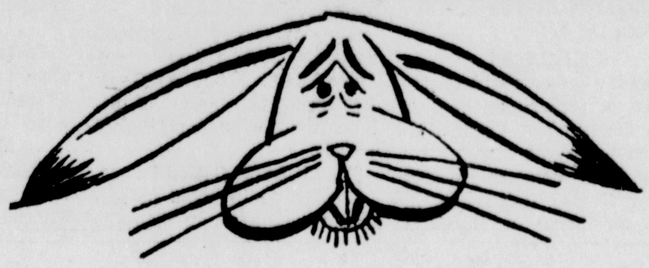

Miss Chinatown U.S.A., Trudy Lin Young of Honolulu, presided over the gala event from a brightly decorated float.

The celebration marked the start of the year 4670 on the Chinese calendar, the year of the rat.

Marin Hoovers' 'Two Lives'

They Have A Famous Relative

Although Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hoover Jr. have lived in Marin almost four years, few know that they occasionally lead two lives.

One is that of a quiet suburban family in Greenbrae, with their 4-year-old daughter Deborah and infant son Allan III.

The other "life" is as family representatives at official functions honoring former President Herbert Hoover — Allan Hoover's grandfather.

"We try to avoid publicity," Allan said, "and don't let it change our lives. We would rather have people like us for being ourselves. One of the occasions which will bring the couple to public attention is "The Inaugural Story and Champagne Gala" to be held at Peacock Gap Country Club on Saturday afternoon, when 21 Marin women will model replicas of inaugural gowns in the Smithsonian Institution's historical collection.

Owners of the gowns are Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Deer of Birmingham, Mich. The gowns can be rented by any group or individual, and the Marin gaa will be their first showing in Northern California.

MARION HOOVER will portray Mrs. Herbert Hoover and model the replica of her inaugural gown, and her costume jewelry will be authentic — the simple gold chain with pendant that belonged to her husband's grandmother.

While his wife was being fitted for the gown Hoover recalled memories of life with the man he called "Granddad."

"I'm not interested in running for political office," he said. "You can't follow a name. I like to work in the background for the Republican party and support fund-raisers such as 'The Inaugural Story.'

"My father was known as the First Family's young bachelor and married after the White House years. I was born in Palo Alto, then lived in Pasadena before we moved East to be nearer to my grandfather.

"My grandmother passed away in 1944, and in order To continue his writing, his work with the Belgium Relief Foundation and World Food programs, Granddad took a suite in the Waldorf Astoria hotel as his permanent residence."

THE WALDORF home has special memories for Allan's wife, Marion.

"We went in to New York one day, to see President Hoover," she said. He had just had his 90th birthday the week before — in fact, most of the decorations were still up. While we were waiting in the living room to go in to see him, Alan surprised me with the gift of my engagement ring."

"President Hoover had a marvelous sense of humor. The ring still had a little label on it, the jeweler's name, or something. When we showed it to his grandfather, he kidded Allan about leaving the price tag on the ring.

"He was serious, though, about welcoming me into the family. His warmth and charm made me very happy. Allan's father has the same kind of personality — subtle humor and great charm."

"My memory of Granddad," Allan continued, "is always associated with the people I met. He and Harry Truman were the best of friends. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis used to call on him at the Waldorf. My grandfather had great compassion for all people, and was very kind in his criticism.

"In the evenings at the Waldorf he always had friends drop in for dinner or canasta. He loved the game, taught me how to play, and I still enjoy it.

"He used to come out to the Bohemian Club on the Russian River every summer to go trout fishing.

Photographs show him all dressed up, but that's how he was. For fishing trips, he'd put on a pair of white trousers, a shirt, tie and coat. That way he wore out the jackets from his old suits," the former President's grandson said.

Hoover died in New York in October 1964 at the age of 90. He was buried at West Branch, Iowa, where he was born.

Allan Hoover did not attend Stanford University, where his grandparents had both received their geology degrees. After his graduation from prep school in the East, his grandfather suggested a small college in upstate New York, St. Lawrence University, so that's where he went. He is now associated with Marsh and McLennan Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

MARION HOOVER received a degree in political science from University of California. She had met Allan in her junior year at the university.

"My younger brother Andrew is now following in his grandfather's footsteps, in mining" Allan said. "He graduated from Colorado School of Mines as a mining engineer and now is in Africa on an exploration trip. My sister, Lou Henry, is in Southern California, working as a teacher's aide."

Since the Herbert Hoovers' eldest son, Herbert Hoover Jr., died two years ago, Allan said his father, who lives in Greenwich, Conn., has assumed care of the Hoover affairs. He is on the board of directors for the libraries — The Institution of War and Peace on the Stanford campus, and the Presidential Library in West Branch.

"The Institution of War and Peace houses many valuable documents, some of Hitler's papers, for example," Allan said. "The documents are exchanged between libraries throughout the world as a continuing study for peace. This work goes on quietly between nations all of the time.

"IN THE course of history," Allan said, "the things my grandfather believed in, the things he did, are coming into perspective — from criticism to praise."

ALLAN HOOVER Jr., grandson of President Herbert Hoover, checks a photograph of the original gown his grandmother wore in 1929. His wife, Marion, tries on the replica of the sea-foam green satin gown which she will model at "The Inaugural Story and Champagne Gala" on March 4. NATIONAL SURVEY

The Report Card Under Attack

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Most report cards misinform parents and misjudge talented students, a national survey of the way schools grade children revealed. "To put it bluntly, most report cards are failing!" education expert Arlene Silberman asserted.

The survey, appearing in the March issue of Ladies' Home Journal, evaluated 271 report cards from kindergarten through senior high school.

"Tidy, obedient little girls are ty pically rated higher than messy, active boys, regardless of ability and intelligence," asserted Mrs. Silberman. "The child who figures out how the pencil sharpener works is often graded lower than the child who keeps his pencils sharpened."

According to Mrs. Silberman, most schools fail to grade really important qualities. She stated 98 per cent of the kindergarten and elementary school report cards evaluated "follows directions" but few rated "assumes responsibility" because "initiative" is not as valued as "follows directions."

Mrs. Silberman listed other most frequently rated categories: listens attentively, begins work promptly, works neatly, takes care of materials, completes work on time, cleans up after work, accepts criticism, speaks and acts courteously, practices good health habits observes safety rules, and works and plays well with others.

These "are legitimate questions, providing they are not the only questions," Mrs. Silberman stated. Here is her listing of the least frequently rated categories: originality, openness, self-confidence, enthusiasm, creativity, resourcefulness, imagination, pride in work, self-reliance, curiosity, inventiveness, initiative and self-direction.

"The sum total of the two lists suggests that schools report favorably on neat and docile children who do what is expected of them," asserted Mrs. Silberman.

"The child who does the unexpected, no matter how creative he may be, is unappreciated in many schools and penalized in some," she said.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

All Convict Wants Is To Lead A Normal Life — Question Is How

DEAR HELEN:

As you can see from the stationery, I am in prison. I was thinking of hanging myself, but my belt is so old it would probably break. The only help I get here, is they offered to give me a new belt. (Ha-ha-a little prison humor, there.)

Kidding aside, I am 20 and tired of coming to jail all the time. I want to change my life. I'm not saying I'm guilty or not of the charges that got me here. All I want is to live a normal life when I get out.

Please give me a way to go so I won't be headed back to The Joint. — W.L.

DEAR W.:

How about taking The Seventh Step?

When you join this program, you receive counseling — from ex-cons and fellow prisoners ("solid cons") who know the score and can help you get your head on straight. You attend regular meetings before your release from prison. On the outside, you receive continued assistance, which includes aid in finding a job, adjusting to family life and, most important, staying out.

If this non-profit organization hasn't yet reached your area, write to National Headquarters, Seventh Step Foundation, Inc., Albuquerque, New Mexico, for further information.

Good luck. And save that new belt for better days ahead. — H.

DEAR MADAM:

Your endorsement of co-ed dorms is without a doubt the most debased, immoral propaganda conceivable to encourage collage students away from a good and wholesome life.

It is stupid to compare co-ed dorms to apartment living as your daughter did, for everybody knows what goes on (with university sanction) in those depraved dormitories where boys and girls live together.

For a mother (you) to quote a California psychiatry professor in defense of co-ed dormitory experience is just about as silly as asking a prostitute to campaign for the abolition of brothels — especially in California.

Evidently you don't know what goes on at colleges. The things I hear make me think all young ladies (emphasis on ladies) should be kept away from these immoral institutions. Or at least from campus living.

Politically, our country is weak; economically, it is ill. Socially, both can be cured but not with your depraved brand of "sermonizing." — NTO NAIVE

DEAR NOT NAIVE:

Tell me, when did you last visit a co-ed dormitory on a college campus? For that matter, how long has it been since you've done more than read wild stories about modern university living?

And aren't you generalizing just a wee bit when you condemn a nationally acclaimed university professor, simply because he also is a California psychiatrist?

I'll bet you're the type who thinks the University of California at Berkeley hatches nothing but violent revolutionaries. Pity. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

These women who sign themselves "Just a Wife," rather self-pityingly, need educating.

As the wife, mother, mistress, nurse, chauffeur, purchasing agent, family manager, disciplinarian, advisor, laundress, housekeeper, cook, bottlewasher, veterinarian, pet food supplier, seamstress, gardener, secretary, part time student for the Home Office, room mother, chairman on school committees, member of a nationwide group interested in world betterment, may I say that after 20 years and three children, it would be something to relax and be "Just a Wife." — MRS. C.D.

Cold cuts should be stored in the refrigerator and used within three to five days.

Cars Compared On Smog: GM Smells Like Rose

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The federal government has just published comparative data listing the varying abilities of 1972 cars and trucks in reducing air pollution.

Average pollution levels are shown for each model, as certified by manufacturers and checked by the government at the Federal Testing Laboratory at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Figures show average levels of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide in grams per mile and the number of grams of gasoline lost through evaporation from the carburetor and fuel tank in each test.

In order to be certified for public sale every vehicle must meet the 1972 federal standards of not more than 3.4 grams of hydrocarbon and 39 grams of carbon monoxide per mile. Evaporation loss must not exceed two grams.

All vehicles on the list meet the minimum standards, but there is wide variation among makes and models.

GROUPED BY manufacturer, American Motors cars ranked highest in carbon monoxide emissions, and General Motors cars ranked the lowest. G.M. also ranked lowest in average hydrocarbon and Ford was the highest.

Based on a summary published in the Feb. 4 Federal Register, the four American automakers had the following averages in grams per mile (gpm):

Ford, 2.68 gpm hydrocarbon and 24.34 gpm carbon monoxide; American Motors, 2.63 gpm hydrocarbon and 27.44 gpm carbon monoxide; Chrysler, 2.29 gpm hydrocarbon and 22.46 gpm carbon monoxide; and GM, 2.02 gpm hydrocarbon and 20.38 carbon monoxide.

In individual ratings, the Ford Mustang had the most hydrocarbon of all the 1972 foreign and domestic cars tested, with 3.3 grams per mile. A Chevrolet Suburban had the highest carbon monoxide with 38.55 grams per mile.

FEDERAL REGULATIONS require each manufacturer to test prototype cars which presumably represent each model sold. The vehicles are tested in two ways. In one test, vehicles are driven for 4,000 miles before being measured for exhaust emissions.

The second test is for durability of exhaust control devices. In this test, cars are driven for 50,000 miles while being tested for compliance every 4,000 miles.

Test vehicles must then be sent to the Federal laboratory to see whether they conform to standards. The government, however, does not intend for its reports to indicate endorsement of any vehicle. It is against the law to sell any vehicle that does not meet federal standards.

There are separate standards for heavy-duty gasoline and diesel engine vehicles. But judging from test results, they are not stringent. The maximum for heavy-duty gasoline engines is275 parts per million (ppm) of hydrocarbon and 1.5 per cent carbon monoxide.

But only two out of 38 vehicles listed showed more than 200 ppm. Both were Fords. Most had less than 150 ppm. Only six out of the 389vehicles had more than 1.0 per cent carbon monoxide.

New Baking Process

A new backing process significantly improves the service properties of a new line of carpets. The manufacturer says the process involves heat-welding a new type of synthetic rubber backing to the carpet forming a unified construction that will not delaminate or peel off under any use conditions.

Red Dresses For Evening Will Be 'In'

Red dresses for evening are going to be popular for summer, according to Women's Wear Daily. Designers have given a variety of reasons for including them in their collections.

"Maybe it's got something to do with President Nixon's trip," said Victor Joris.

"Red is a fascinating summer color - marvelous for the girl who tans and good for the girl who stays white," said Bill Blass.

Pauline Trigere used red for the most dramatic outfit in her collection — a long halter dress under a swirling cape.

"Red is so sensational, so beautiful," she said.

NOT ANOTHER! — President Nixon wears a look of some anguish as his glass is filled again with mao-tai, the ever-present and very potent alcoholic beverage used at all Chinese banquets for the numerous toasts. (UPI Telephoto)

Post-Trip China Communique Brings Surprise, Agreement

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Western world generally agreed today the joint communique at the end of President Nixon's China visit demo strated a realistic attempt by Washington to deal with Peking. But the statement registered "surpsie and shock" in Taiwan and Japan.

Neither the North or South Vietnamese governments issued statements on the communique released Sunday in Peking by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported Nixon's departure from China in a one-paragraph dispatch.

Pravda quoted American news agencies' reports of the agreement on mutual trips by citizens and a gradual widening of trade.

Pravda also quoted the U.S. Communist newspaper Daily World as saying that instead of strengthening peace and security in Asia the communique would aggravate it.

In its weekly international review, Pravda said the "hullabaloo raised by the bourgeois press around the trip is unable to drown out the blasts of American bombs and shell bursting on the soil of Indochina."

Japanese Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda told newsmen Nixon's visit to China helped ease tensions in Asia, but Mainichi newspaper, one of the three largest in Japan, said the communique was a "profound shock to the leadership of the ruling party."

Observers in New Delhi said Indian officials were irritated at that part of the statement which said the people of Jammu and Kashmir, whose boundaries are disputed by India and Pakistan, have a right to self determination. The communique called for withdrawal of both Pakistani and the Indian troops behind lines that existed before the 14-day war in December.

China and the United States backed Pakistan in that war. Russia sided with India.

Former French Premier Edgar Faure said the communique was an "enormous diplomatic victory" for Peking and a tribute to Nixon's realism.

German government spokesman Conrad Ahlers said the Bonn government was pleased that Nixon and Chou "obviously succeeded" in reaching agreement on a first step toward normalizing relations.

The pro-Nationalist China newspaper Kung Sheung Daily News of Hong Kong said Nixon's trip "is a betrayal to the free world."

Ming Pao, an independent Hong Kong paper, said the communique's comments on Taiwan were "Peking's victory." But it added, "On the whole, we think the Sino-U.S. talks this time have contributed to the peace of the world if both sides can follow honestly the five principles of peaceful coexistence."

The Times of London said, "For all the frankness, the communique still makes bleak reading."

"Mr. Nixon must have realized before he went, and has certainly had confirmed in the talks in Peking' that almost all the concessions must first come from his side, not China's, if relations between the two countries are to be put on a new footing," the Times said.

Guilty Plea To Petty Theft

Jack Harold Edge II, 30, of Belvedere has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of petty theft. He had originally been charged with burglarizing a Belvedere residence on Feb. 10.

Edge is to be sentenced April 7.

He was arrested after a Beach Road resident called police to say a man had broken a rear window of his home, reached in and taken a radio. Police found Edge on a nearby hillside with the radio close by, they said.

Chou Impressed The First Lady

ANCHORAGE Alaska (UPI) —Pat Nixon brought back to the United States today 40 pounds of candy from her Chinese hosts and the impression that Premier Chou En-lai is a charmer and a highly intelligent man.

Noting that Mrs. Nixon had displayed a sweet tooth during her eight days in China, members of the Shanghai Revolutionary Committee loaded her down with the huge amount of candy. It was done up in four pink and blue, satin-covered boxes.

The candy gift was made shortly before the Nixons boarded the "Spirit of '76" jetliner for the flight over the North Pole to Anchorage on the way home. On the plane, the President stayed in his cabin but the First Lady came out to give reporters some of her impressions of Chou.

"He's a real charmer," Mrs. Nixon said. "He's a man who knows the world. He has a delightful sense of humor. We had some fun moments. His capacity for detail amazes me.

Mrs. Nixon said she was able to coax the premier into speaking English for her and found he spoke the language so fluently he even corrected his interpreter.

The First Lady said she did not gain a pound during the tour despite the heavy round of banquets. She said she lived on tea and tangerines during the day to make room for the banquet food at night.

She also was cautious, she recalled, in her use of mao tai, the fiery Chinese liquor. She confessed that during toasts she put her glass to her lips and only pretended to drink.

Mrs. Nixon said she extended many invitations to Chinese to visit the United States, and "I hope they do."

She spent most of her week in China just the way she had wished —mingling with the people and seeing the sights.

As she and the President spent their final full day in the country Sunday, the First Lady visited the Shanghai Children's Palace where "little Red Guards" sang revolutionary songs, showed their skill in gymnastics and ping pong, and applauded their guest.

"They're so well rounded," Mrs. Nixon said as she toured the facility housed in a converted British colonial home. She told the youngsters: "All the children in our country say hello to you here."

The First Lady, wearing a beige jersey dress with matching shoes and a beige mink coat, visited the palace after accompanying her husband and Premier Chou En-lai on a tour of a Shanghai industrial exhibition.

During that visit, Nixon joked that he wanted to keep his wife busy sightseeing so she would not go shopping. Mrs. Nixon, meantime, confided to reporters that she would like to stay longer in China "but this is D-Day."

She and Nixon left aboard the presidential jet, "Spirit of '76", early today, after a week in China.

On the eve of their departure, the Nixons attended a farewell banquet and an acrobatic show afterward. Mrs. Nixon, wearing a brocade silk dress with a diamond pin, looked on as her husband and Chou exchanged toast after high-spirited toast at the dinner.

The Nixons also had a relaxed outing Saturday in Hangchow, the Chinese lakeside resort city. During the day, Pat broke away from her press entourage and visited the Ting Ying temple, a shrine to the Great Buddha.

Emergency Surgery Fails

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Dr. Alfred Conti performed emergency surgery on his wife with a kitchen knife in a restaurant, surrounded by other diners. Despite his efforts, his wife died.

Mrs. Catherine Conti was dining with her husband in the Palmer House Restaurant Saturday night when a piece of steak stuck in her throat and she began to choke, police reported.

Conti, as her condition became more serious, snatched a sharp knife from the kitchen and performed an emergency tracheotomy, as the other diners looked on. A tracheotomy involves cutting into the throat to the trachea, to allow air to enter directly into the windpipe.

Mrs. Conti choked to death.

Musk Ox Has Sniffles — Trip Delay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Milton, the fuzzy little musk ox, has come down with a cold and it will be several weeks before he and his big sister, Matilda, can go to the Peking zoo.

"There will be no trip today," San Francisco Zoo director Ronald Reuther said Sunday. "Milton has a cold."

President Nixon gave the two Arctic oxen as a gift to the Chinese, who have none in their zoo. In return, Premier Chou En-lai presented the President with two rare black and white pandas for an American zoo.

Milton and Matilda, thought to be the only musk oxen born in capt ivity in the Unitec States, ware scheduled to leave for Peking Sunday afternoon aboard an Air Force plane from Travis AFB.

But the one-year-old, 75-pound Milton was receiving antibiotics for his cold and Reuther said it will be "several weeks" before the two oxen can make the trip to China.

The Thoughts Of A Peking Working Man

SHANGHAI (UPI) — Cheng Fuo-yun, 28, a cotton mill machinery repairman, thinks that because of President Nixon's visit to China "the world situation now is excellent."

Cheng lives with his wife, his 1 -year-old son, and his mother in a tiny two-room apartment in the Tsaoyang workers' new residential area of Shanghai.

By American standards, the living conditions of his family are Spartan, but Cheng likes it. His mother says things are far better now than "before liberation," when she lived in a thatched roof hut that flooded inside and out every time it rained.

Two American newsmen were invited into Cheng's incredibly crowded but spotlessly clean home. They sipped hot water, a common Chinese drink, and talked through an interpreter about Cheng's life.

Cheng said he studies the writing of Mao Tse-tung about two hours every day, one hour before and one after work. He was asked what he thought of the Nixon visit.

"President Nixon through his visit to China will open the gate to relations between China and the United States," he said. "The United States had encircled China for more than 20 years. The people of America are great."

It is the official line, of course, but it probably also was Cheng's personal opinion. In a week in China, this reporter found no one who did not repeat and apparently believe official government positions. Do you believe in the thoughts of Mao? Cheng was asked. "Of course," he said. "Does anyone doubt? There are a handful of class enemies that do not believe the works of Chairman Mao but the majority believe."

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

By JUNE EMBURY

Did you ever consider the real meaning of the word "health"? It comes from the anglo-saxon word "hale" meaning "whole."
The controversial term "health foods" would then become "whole foods", foods that are left vital and are not fragmented and robbed of their nutritious qualities. Our body needs daily all of the essential nutrients found in vital foods. No abundance of any one factor, no one miracle food or vitamin can make up for the other missing factors. All must be present, all must be vital.
Every week in this spot we will look at some of the wonderful ideas we can use to make us feel better, live longer and accomplish more in life. We will aim for wholeness, for balance, for common sense nutrition.
When you want to get whole foods that will fill you with zest and energy come to our store, we will be glad to help you.

MUSIC REVIEW

Fine Listening Without Ozawa

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The absence of Seiji Ozawa's personal magic may have been responsible for sparse attendance at Saturday night's San Francisco Symphony concert at Veterans Memorial Building, but fine music nevertheless was heard.

Istvan Kertesz, the 42-year-old Hungarian-born music director of the Cologne Opera and principal director of Chicago's Ravinia festival, had his own brand of magic built on solid musicianship and ability to inspire musicians.

His style of conducting ranged from almost incredible relaxation and informality in the opening Mozart Serenata Notturna in D major K. 239 to fiery intensity in the closing Bartok Concerto for Orchestra.

Fireworks again were heard in the middle piece, Dvorak's Violin Concerto in A minor, Opus 53, but the focus in this work was on Kertesz's 35-year-old fellow countryman, Gyorgy Pauk.

Major impression of the evinng was made by that important 20th century work, the Bartok Concerto, so called instead of a symphony because of soloistic featuring of single, paired and groups of instruments in dialogue with the rest of the orchestra.

While both the brass and strings — the violins at times were in such perfect unison that they seemed like a single huge instrument — produced some spine-tingling sonority, it was the purity of tone, agility and expressive beauty of the woodwinds that held attention. Bartok's writing for these instruments is so original, and they are so often featured, especially in the second allegro scherzando movement and third elegia, that the work seemed almost like a concerto for woodwinds.

The final presto movement is one of the most brilliant orchestral displays in the symphonic repertoire.

The Dvorak violin concerto was a virtuoso showpiece for Pauk, but the music by no means was only a vehicle for digital gymnastics. Either the violinist profited by criticism of his San Francisco performance, or the acoustics inside Veterans Memorial Building are kinder than those of the San Francisco Opera House, for his tone was robust and at no time small or inaudible, even against the full power of the orchestra.

Pauk was a flamboyant performer with considerable head tossing and swaying from side to side in dramatic moments, but he was able to spin a fine filament of soft high sound and make his instrument sing.

In extreme contrast to these concerti, the Mozart serenata was a sort of chamber piece performed in the round with Kertesz seated between a concertante group, consisting of two violins, viola and string base, at the front of the stage, and a small orchestra of strings and kettledrums.

The acme of nonchalance, Kertesz's conducting consisted mostly of light tempo guidance of the ensemble and occasional cues to one or more of the concertante group that were little more than an intensely focused gaze or wave of the hand.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Mary, Mary': Cute And Funny — But Run Is Short

By KAY KSANDA

"Mary Mary," the marital situation-comedy by Jean Kerr, is a cute play with very funny dialogue. Produced for the Marin Repertory Theater (a new young group) at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, it will have just the short run of two weekends.

"Mary Mary," like many other plays currently produced in the county, is entertaining family fun. The price of an adult ticket is $3.50, which seems high, but again, it's because it opened last weekend and is closing the next. Some of the other dramatic productions in the county cost less. They have a longer run, and better community support.

The two young producers, Don Walker and Victor Massad, chose a sure-fire story, a good director, and a fresh cast. Written by Jean Kerr, probably best known for her work, "Please Don't Eat The Daisies," the situation concerns the plight of Mr. and Mrs. McKellaway who have been divorced for nine months, and must see each other to unravel their tax returns.

Bob McKellaway is a sympathetic hero, a kind man who always has been intimidated by his scintillating, wisecracking wife, Mary. Furthermore, he is just two weeks away from remarriage to Tiffany Richards, a health nut, but a beautiful one. His tax man, Oscar, is an attorney with a high capacity for mischief and a good head for figures. Even with McKellaway's lucrative position as editor of a prominent publishing firm, he is unable to support both his former and future wife. Oscar advises reconciliation. Into this snarl walks an aging movie star, neighbor and friend of McKellaway, who wants his dull and unpunctuated life story published.

The pace unnerves McKellaway, and by the third act he has mistakenly swallowed a dose of sleeping pills instead of aspirin. His former wife is the least worried about his condition, and suggests that they cover him with a sheet. He says, "I feel like a man who has been getting well in a hospital for nine months, and on his way out, breaks his leg on the front steps."

The only problem with the production is occasional incredibility. The pace is great, the acting good, but the casting, and some spots in the story either need changing or updating.

The aging movie star appears to be about college age. Gregory Brockbank, who plays the part of Dirk, couldn't close the 20-year gap. As he spoke about exerciss to firm the muscles of his sagging jowls, even the kids in the audience tittered.

Anni Long, cast as Mary, is obviously young for her role, but has the vivacity and delivery for her brittle lines (no mean feat!) and can slip over the age difference. But she is contemporary, and would never have heard of Eleanor Roosevelt, and wouldn't have been old enough to vote for Harry Truman. Outside of some problems of walking and gestures that only the young use, she was delightful.

Pat Vaughan as Oscar, the attorney, was impish. Adrienne Farrel as Tiffany was believable, and truly a beatiful girl. Michael Percy as Bob McKellaway seemed born for the part, and had a delivery almost like Jack Benny, subtle, understated and expressive. As a team, he and Miss Long were meshed.

The mechanics of the production — lights, set, and costumes — were all well-handled. It is too bad they don't have a longer run. Showtime is 8 p.m. next Friday and Sunday night, March 3 and 5.

"MARY MARY" — Situation comedy in three acts by Jean Kerr, produced by Don Walker and Victor Massad; directed and designed by Thomas Farley for the Marin Repertory Theater. Set, Tom Farley and Hugh Brashear; director's assistant, Deb Robinson; stage mgr., Marty Sanda; lights, Jerry Donovan. Cast: Bob McKellaway, Michael Percy; Tiffany Richards, Adrienne Farrel; Oscar Nelson, Pat Vaughan; Dirk Winston, Gregory Brockbank; Mary McKellaway, Anni Long.

Marist Site Hearing Set For March 7

The San Rafael Planning Commission will continue consideration of the future of the Marist Seminary property March 7.

It was erroniously reported in the Independent-Journal Feb. 17 the meeting would take place March 6.

Planning commissioners deferred action on the controversial issue during their Feb. 8 meeting, following a three hour hearing before a standing room-only-crowd. The adjourned meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in San Rafael City Hall.

Second Grant For Oil Study

The College of Marin has received a second $25,000 grant from Standard Oil Co. of California to continue studies of the effects of the massive bay oil spill Jan. 18, 1971.

The grant was presented Friday by two oil company executives who praised the results of the study during the first year, according to the college. Those results were recently published in an 82-page report by Dr. Gordon Chan, a life sciences professor.

The oil spill caused by the collision of two Standard Oil Co. tankers in dense fog near the Golden Gate Bridge spread oil along much of Marin's coast.

Some Flights Are Delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Flights at major airports were delayed Sunday when a heavy fog settled over much of California.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency said airports at San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, San Diego, and Los Angeles were fog bound off and on during the morning. A few flights were diverted.

At San Francisco, the departure of 58 planes were delayed anywhere from a half hour to an hour and a quarter.

"Visibility kept fluctuating," the spokesman said. "One would get in and one wouldn't."

The fog, which also slowed drivers on freeways, lifted before noon.

20 Artists Will Display At Congregation

Twenty Marin artists will display their work at the Congregation Rodef Shalom's second annual Exhibit 20, an invitational art show to be held at 8 p.m. April 8 at 107 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

Funds raised through ticket sales and a commission on each work sold at the art show will go into the congregation's art purchase fund. The congregation is assembling a permanent collection.

Each artist will be sponsored by a couple from the congregation who will introduce the artists. Wines and cheeses will be served.

Eleven of the artists participated in last year's show. They are Eleanor Bender, Ada Gardinkel (art critic of the Independent-Journal), Carol Herschleb, June Lederman, Warren Logan, Gayle Luchessa, Ralph O'Neil, Alton Raible, Kent Rupp, Martin Stoelzel and Gwen Stone.

The other artists are Ernest Braun, Catharine Gibson, John Ihle, Othello Michetti, Charlotte Patera, Fritz Rauh, Dale Rausch, Phyllis Taplitz and Tony Williams.

Collegians To Give Concert At Mission

The 30 members of the College Chamber Singers of California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo will present a free concert at 8 p.m. March 18 at Mission San Rafael.

The concert will be part of the singers' second annual tour of California Missions. Conductor John Russell said the program will include both early California church music — much of it sung in Latin — and contemporary choral music.

MUSIC REVIEW

Bach-Mozart Group In Rich, Varied Mill Valley Program

By ROBERT M. NESS

True to the form that has made it one of Marin County's most esteemed music ensembles, The Bach-to-Mozart Group presented a rich and varied program to about 200 zealous music lovers last night at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley.

This, the fourth concert of the Candlelight Music Series, was highlighted by four arias and a duet from Bach Cantatas featuring guest soloists, soprano Marie Gibson and bass Robert Bernard, and a brilliant performance by Frealon Bibbons of a rarely heard solo clarinet quartet by Finnish clarinetist-composer H. B. Crusell.

Raymond Duste, oboist and founder of the group, opened the evening with Benjamin Britten's animated miniature "Pan" for solo oboe.

The festive mood thus established, violinists George Nagata and Donna Salarpi, violist Asbjorn Finess, cellist Teressa Adams and harpsichordist Donald Pippin joined the trumpeter Edward Haug in the "Sonata for Trumpet and Strings" by Alessandro Stradella. Haug played this early Baroque work with facility and a beautiful clear tone.

The Crusell quartet for clarinet, violin, viola, and cello stylistically falls somewhere between Mozart and Schubert. With lilting melodies placed above light transparent textures, the work, while not particularly original, was well-written and became an effective expressive vehicle for the artistry of clarinetist Bibbons.

He is one of the great masters of the clarinet. His performance of this work was miraculous in every respect. From the elegant and lyrical romance, to the jocular minuet, to the sparkling rondo, he played with a tone capable of every degree of color and dynamic articulation.

The Bach arias selected were based on expressions of various different attitudes about death — fear, joy, wonder. Soprano Marie Gibson began the series with the sublime "Ich wunsche mir den Tod" (Cantata 57). Her clear voice and exceptional musical ability ideally complemented this work.

"Es ist Volbracht," the poignant final utterings of Christ on the Cross, from Cantata 159, was beautifully sung by bass Bernard. He has a rich velvety voice and a sensitive musical delivery.

The duet from Cantata 32, "Nun verschwinden alle Plagen," closed the program on an optimistic and joyous note. Both singers and audience were possessed by the brightness of this well-known duet.

The fifth candlelight concert will feature the Smetana Trio from Czechoslovakia and will be presented in Brown's Hall on Saturday, March 25, at 8 p.m.

Auto Parts Reported Stolen

Auto parts worth $460 have been stolen from outside lots of two San Rafael parts dealers, according to police.

An estimated $300 in parts were stolen from the storage yard of D and W Auto Parts at 77 Hoag Street. The theft was discovered Wednesday morning.

Parts valued at $160 were reported stolen from the lot of R and R Automatic Transmissions Repair, 1542 Fourth Street, police said. Owners discovered the loss Friday morning.

Recorder Taken

A tape recorder and make-up paster valued at $200 were stolen Friday from Petaluma Junior High School, police said. A window was broken to gain entry.

Questionnaire For Candidates

Each candidate for public office in Marin County has been sent a questionnaire by the Marin County Taxpayers Association, seeking to determine his position on tax matters.

A roundup of such opinions will be presented in the association's Tax News prior to the April elections.

Among the questions asked in the questionnaire are: Does the candidate propose new activities or expansion of existing programs and, if so, how does he intend to finance them? Would the candidate support an all-out campaign to hold or reduce existing taxes and does the candidate believe existing tax levels are too high?

The questionnaire also seeks to determine whether the candidate would support the association's published guidelines on taxation.

Two Are Injured In Car Accident

Jane Meine, 22, of Oakland was treated at Marin General Hospital at 8:23 a.m., Saturday, for a back sprain and Thomas Richardson, 22, of Union City was treated for a bruised right shoulder, hospital authorities reported.

The injuries were the result of an automobile accident, according to hospital authorities, but details of the accident were not available.

Country Club Will Be Reopened

"The good old Marin Town and Country Club will be going like gangbusters."

That was the word today from clubowner Max Friedman in announcing the Fairfax summer resort would reopen April 15 for at least one more season.

Friedman had said that last summer was to be the club's last, but he said today that "other plans" for the 23.5 — acre site had not materialized.

One plan, the reported sale of the property to an Oakland development company for construction of 350 to 450 apartments, has been called off. Friedman said today.

The company, Kaiser-Aetna, had taken an option on purchase of the property, Friedman said, but the option expired when Kaiser-Aetna ran into complications with other development projects.

Reports of Kaiser-Aetna plans for the town and country club site led to opposition by a group of Fairfax citizens who organized into a committee to Preserve Land and Nature (PLAN) aimed at having the property rezoned to prevent its development for residential use.

When the Fairfax City Council refused to rezone the property, PLAN submitted enough signatures to qualify the proposal for an April 11 ballot measure.

The measure seeks to rezone the property into a proposed commercial-recreation zone, which would confine the land to uses similar to current function.

The club offers spacious picnic areas, six swimming pools and a variety of other summer recreation activities.

The season will end, again perhaps for the last time, Oct. 1, Friedman said.

Nixon Toasts 'Chinese Voice'

SHANGHAI (UPI)—On his next-to-last day in China, President Nixon managed to stump Tang Wen-sheng, the young women who has been constantly at Nixon's side, interpreting for both him and Premier Chou En-lai.

At a banquet in Hangchow Saturday night, the President said in a return toast: "On this informal occasion may I express my appreciation to my Chinese voice, to Mrs. Tang. I listened to her translation. She got every word right."

While the Chinese guests waited for a translation of Nixon's words, Mrs. Tang, obviously flustered, remained silent. However, her colleagues good naturedly cajoled her into going on.

Troop 55 Wins Aid Competition

The third annual first aid competition of the Miwok District of the Boy Scouts of America was won by Troop 55 of San Rafael Friday, the scouts announced today.

The troop sponsored by the San Rafael Elks Club bested 13 other Marin troops in the meet, which was judged on the answers to 14 elementary first aid questions.

Over 250 scouts participated.

'The Last Supper' Painting Is Stolen

BUSY CHECK STATION — A group of students check in at the San Rafael High School check station. Walkers in yesterday's "Marin Hike for Help," had to check in at seven different check points along the 20 mile hike to show that they had made it that far. The San Rafael High School check point was 8.9 miles or nearly half way along the line of march.

HOPING FOR $30,000

A 20-Mile Hike Helps Charity

By THERON A. NEWELL

With a shout, a group of 15 to 20 teen-agers crossed College Avenue yesterday and broke into a run toward the final check point on the 20-mile Marin Hike for Help.

Behind them came two older teen-age girls, their boots over their shoulders, slowly, painfully walking across the pavement to the check point.

After they checked in, they headed for a nearby soft drink stand where free refreshment was available.

Approximately 1,200 persons made the 20-mile hike around Central Marin County for charity. Half the money raised goes to the medical ship HOPE and Project HOPE for Indians in Arizona and half to Marin Charitable Foundation.

Joan Murray, chairman of the walk, said she hoped that $30,000 would be raised.

The route started at the College of Marin in Kentfield, followed Sir Francis Drake Boulevard almost to the Highway 101 overpass, then crossed the Greenbrae hills to San Rafael High School via Third Street. From there it followed Fourth Street and the Miracle Mile to Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to St. Augustine's Church in Fairfax. It reversed itself, going down Center Avenue in San Anselmo to Ross, through Ross back to the College of Marin.

The walk was scheduled to start at 8:30 a.m., but a large group started from the gymnasium at the college at 8:15 a.m.

Among them were Kim Baez, a freshman at Tamalpais High School and Don Elsener, a junior at Redwood High School. Members of the school track teams, these two ran the entire 20 miles and were the first back at the starting point at 10:45 a.m.

They were there still enthusiastically greeting those who came in or were checking out between 1:30 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

One marcher could not find any sponsors, but made the walk anyway, Mrs. Murray said. Some walked for two cents a mile, she said. However, Robert Frost, 14, of 238 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, had 98 sponsors and walked for $7.50 per mile.

Mrs. Murray observed that this walk attracted more junior than senior students and more girls than boys.

Adeline E. Kent Junior High School went all out for the march. The student body officers voted to give the student with the highest amount earned for charity, a $25 savings bond.

Students from Kent school were strung the length of the march. One group that stopped in the shade on Fourth Street for a soft drink were Herman R. Frenzel, 13, of 18 South Ridgewood Road, Bruce Graham of 70 Upton Road, both Kentfield; Anne Liebermermen, 14, of 18 Conch Court, and Neil Katkov 14, of 70 Murray Drive, both of Larkspur. They wer walking for eight to 30 sponsors each and hoped to make from $5.80 cents up to $28 for their effort. Bruce was proud that he was spending his 14th birthday that way.

A Red Cross first aid truck traveled with the marchers. They used some foot soothing materials, a few bandages for blisters, and performed one minor operation. That was cutting the toenails of a girl from San Rafael High School.

Joy Weden, 15 of 49 Oak Knoll Drive, San Anselmo, a student at Sir Francis Drake High School, was tired as she neared the finish line.

"I have run part of the way," she said. She had 20 sponsors and would make about $28 for the drive, she said.

Nor was Marin County alone in putting on the drive. Mrs. Murray said about 60 Petaluma students from Kenilworth Junior High School and 150 from St. Vincent's High School went on the walk.

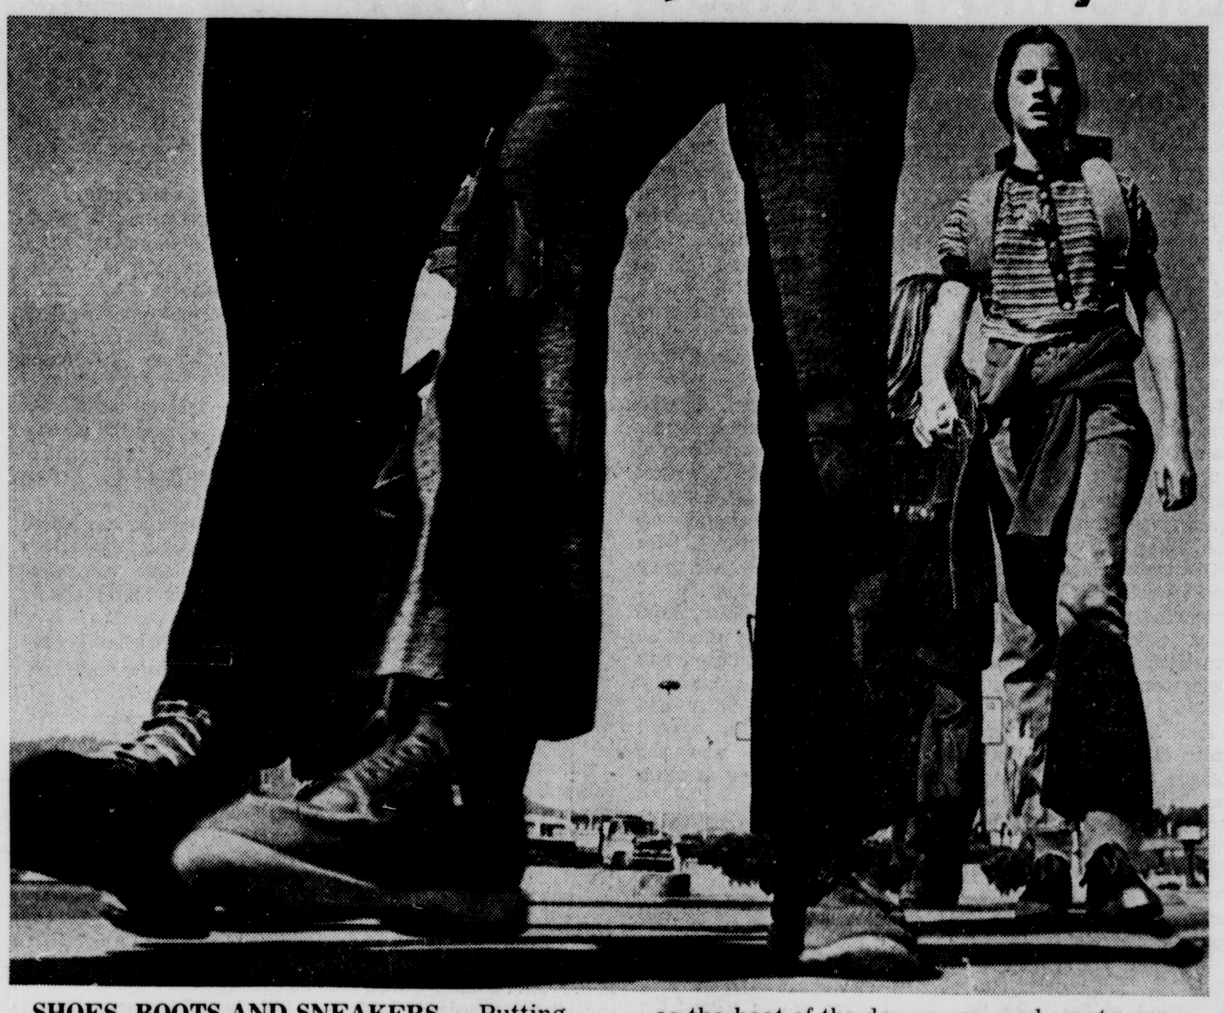

"There were many who came over from San Francisco, but until all of them turn in their cards, we will not know how many," she said.

Nor were only young people in the act. Marching were eight men from the San Rafael Rotary Club, two of them past 70 years of age.

Nor were human beings the only walkers. Beaujolais Wilks, a dog belonging to Terry Wilks, and Alphie Dakin, a dog belonging to Nancy Dakin, both students at Kent made the walk, supported by sponsors.

Persons wishing to donate to the charity, but unable to take part in the walk, may do so by sending their donations to the Marin Hike For Help at the Bank of Marin, Mrs. Murray said.

Police departments agreed that the march was orderly and that the teen-agers did not litter the route with debris. The California Highway Patrol said it caused some minor traffic delays when the main group first started out, but that was soon eliminated as the walkers spread out.

SHOES, BOOTS AND SNEAKERS — Putting one foot in front of the other, these and about 1,200 other hikers marched 20 miles for charity yesterday. The main group of hikers started out in the chill early morning fog, but as the heat of the day progressed, coats were soon tied around the waist as this teen-age girl has done with hers. Hikers with walking shoes and sneakers fared better than those with boots hitting the hard concrete.

Housewife Dies In Cycle Crash

A 32-year-old Woodacre housewife was killed today when her motorcycle struck another vehicle head-on on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Kathleen Olive Redman, 32, of 32 Fire Road, was dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital following the 2:15 a.m. crash.

Officers said Mrs. Redman was traveling eastbound on Drake on the wrong side of the road and collided with a car driven by Geoff R. Woods, 21, of P.O. Box 1, Forest Knolls.

Woods swerved in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid the crash, the patrol said, and collided with an auto driven by Jacqueline M. Solomon, 33, of 14 Francis Street, San Rafael. Neither Woods nor Mrs. Solomon was injured.

Mrs. Redman, a native Californian, is survived by a daughter, Heidi, her mother, Mrs. Geraldine Galgard of Santa Rosa and a sister, Mary Robinson.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Bandit Gets Money At Market

A San Rafael market was robbed of between $2,000 and $3,000 yesterday by an armed bandit who told clerks, "I'm only doing this for my wife and kids."

Police said the man pretended to shop at about 7:15 p.m. at the P and X Market, 688 San Pedro Road, in the Loch Lomond area, until he was the only customer in the store.

Then he approached a cashier's booth, flashed a black automatic weapon and told clerk Aldo P. Blengino, "give me all the money you have in the safe or I'll blow your head off."

The robber, who was 30 to 35 years old, according to Blengino, left behind in a shopping cart a carton of milk, cans of dog food and coffee, a dozen eggs and a box of candy.

Four Hurt In Highway Crash

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in a two-car head-on collision at 6:45 p.m. yesterday on Shoreline Highway, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Officers reported a northbound auto driven by John R. Harrison III of Sacramento crossed the highway centerpine on a curve and collided with an auto driven by Roger C. Strawbridge, 24, of Denver, Colo.

Strawbridge was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut left elbow and his wife, Wendy, 31, for a mild concussion and cut lip. A passenger in the car, Marc M. Brunry, 23, of 24 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated for a bruised hand. Harrison was treated for a sprained left ankle and shoulder strain.

New Missile To Be Delivered

SEATTLE (UPI)—Boeing Co. plans to deliver to the Air Force on Wednesday its first Short Range Attack Missile for the nation's newest strategic weapon system.

Boeing said Sunday the SRAM will be delivered at Ogden, Utah, for the completion of the final assembly of the bomber-launched, nuclear-tipped missile it contracted to produce 13 months ago.

The 14-foot-long SRAM was designed for use in late-model B-52 and FB-111 bombers and as primary armanent for the supersonic B-1 bomber being developed by North American Rockwell Corp.

More than 1,000 SRAMs are to be purchased by the Air Force by the end of fiscal 1975 for about $1 billion.

Discussion Set On Tiburon Development

Tiburon's Peninsula Advisory Committee will examine questions of possible downtown development Wednesday night. "Should Tiburon downtown development, if any, be private or public?" will be discussed at 8 p.m. in the music room of the Del Mar School.

Participants in a panel discussion will include Denis Rice, Tiburon mayor; John Hoffmire, developer; Philip Ehrlich, attorney and a representative of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. Bryan Chapman, an engineer and planning consultant will be moderator.

Robber Gets Thousands At Market

An armed robber held up the Cala Market in Fairfax yesterday and escaped with between $1,000 and $5,000, according to Fairfax police.

When Manager Larry Bivier opened the market at 2040 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 8:35 a.m., the robber was already in the store, Bivier told police. The robber had a small revolver and using it as a threat, forced Bivier to open the safe, putting all the money in a paper sack.

The robber told Bivier that he was going to hit him, but Bivier said he was not. Bivier was shut in the refrigerator and told to stay there 10 minutes, Morarity said.

After Bivier heard the man leave by the side door, he called police. Police searched the area, but could not find the robber.

The robber was described as a male adult, about 50 with grey hair, who wore a brown jacket and tan pants. The robber had a red terry-cloth scarf or towel around his neck and face. He repeatedly warned Bivier not to look at his face, Morarity reported. Bivier was not sure whether or not the robber wore gloves, Morarity said.

POWs Relatives Entering Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) —After months of skirting around the edges, relatives of U.S. prisoners of war are plunging directly into politics. They intend to keep the heat on all the presidential candidates but President Nixon is likely to feel it more than any of the others.

Starting this week a handful of activist POW family members plans too begin campaigning in New Hamphsire with Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., —two long-time opponents of administration Vietnam policy—In support of their respective bids to win that state's Democratic and Republican presidential primaries.

At least two wives and one POW mother are seeking to become delegates to the Democratic National Convention next July. Others are reportedly considering similar moves in connection with August's Republican convention.

And the country's largest group of its type, the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, is mounting a "nonpartisan political action" effort. Its aim: to force every candidate for federal office to say how he would free the approximately 400 U.S. servicemen captured in Indochina since 1964 and provide for an accounting of the more than 1,200 missing in action (MIA) during that time.

Although sharp differences over ideology and strategy separate members of the POW family community, virtually all hold the view it is now or never, that the issue must be kept alive. Unless the right candidate is elected (or re-elected) president' they feel, pressure for the men's release will ease after the election. Some men, it is feared, may not survive.

Mrs. Joan Vinson, Alexandria, Va., wife of a missing Air Force pilot and co-chairman of the league of families' political action committee, said her once "nonpolitical" organization was going political because, "We just couldn't let this year go by without doing something."

Mrs. Valerie Kushner, Danville, Va., the young wife of an Army physician held captive in South Vietnam by the Viet Cong, was more bitter and directed her scorn toward President Nixion, who she accused of preparing to abandon the POWs.

"I don't think my husband is coming home, I don't think any of the men are coming home — at least not this year. We have to elect someone else," she said.

Mrs. Kushner, who says she long ago decided that working with peace groups offered the best chance of winning her husband's freedom, will campaign with McGovern this week. At the same time some of her allied in a dissident group known as POW-MIA Families for Immediate Release were planning to go on the stump with McCloskey.

Fairfax Youth Jailed On Dope

An 18-year-old Fairfax man has been arrested on suspicion of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale, San Rafael police reported today.

Gordon David Blankenberg of 131 Meernaa Avenue, was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $3,000 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, he got out of his car at 11:03 p.m. Saturday in front of 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, and emptied the remains of a quart of malt liquor on the pavement when officers approached.

A search of the car revealed eight plastic bags of vegetable matter, three rolled up match book covers, a package of cigarette papers and three burned out cigarette butts, thought to be marijuana.

Store Robbed Of Cash, Clothing

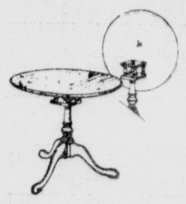

Approximately $218 in cash and clothing was taken Saturday night from Sports-Land Corp., San Rafael police reported today.

Manager Harold Ashley Petty reported that he thought the burglars had hidden in the store at 470 Las Gallinas Avenue when it was closed, as there was no sign of forced entry.

According to police, two young men, both about 18, came into the store just before closing time, but no clerk remembers them leaving. They were described as five feet, eight inches tall, each weighing about 150 pounds. One had black hair and wore a black jacket, the other had brown hair and wore a blue jacket, police reported.

Fairfax Woman Injured In Crash

A Fairfax woman was injured at 8:45 p.m. Saturday when her car hit the guardrail on Highway 101 at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Christine Marie Luce, 23, of 7 Main Court, Fairfax, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruise and sprain of her left knee, according to hospital officials.

Cornerstone Box Opening March 10

A private opening of the cornerstone box from the old County Courthouse in San Rafael is scheduled for March 10 at 10 a.m. at the Civic Center.

According to Bruce D. Bajema, county librarian, the opening will take place in the squad room of the sheriff's office.

He said the room was selected as the best location for the opening because it is a "non-daylight room."

Daylight, he explained, could be damaging to some items, such as newspapers, believed in the box.

Bajema said the number of persons to witness the opening has been limited to about 25 in an effort to keep the carbon dioxide level down.

Once the articles are placed in special display cases they will be available for public viewing at the Marin County Library.

Bajema said he hoped to have the display set up by March 13.

Fish Boat Stuck, But Is Pulled Free

Two Hayward fishermen became stranded in tidal mudflats near Buck's Landing in San Pablo Bay about 5 p.m. yesterday, and their 18-foot boat was pulled free by members of the Marin County Sheriff's Marine Patrol, a patrol spokesman said.

The two fishermen, Donald Vizenor and Harvey Madsen, told deputies they were approaching the landing for fuel when they ran aground. They walked across the mud to shore and hitchhiked to the landing. Patrol deputies Werner Eisen and William Greenbush pulled the boat free.

Fighting Flares In Four Areas In South Vietnam And Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI) — Ground fighting flared in four areas of South Vietnam and in Cambodia today where South Vietnamese forces pushed forward on three fronts. Spokesmen reported 184 guerrillas and 20 South Vietnamese killed in the series of battles.

U.S. troops accounted for at least 20 of the Communist dead in clashes ranging from the Da Nang area to the coastal region southeast of Saigon, and two Americans were reported wounded when their observation helicopter was shot down in ne skirmish.

The air war also flared up and B52s flew 12 missions against suspected guerrilla positions in South Vietnam, the most in two weeks. They concentrated their bomb loads on the Khe Sanh area just below the Demilitarized Zone.

Fighter-bombers were out in force over the Ho Chi Minh Trail supply network in Laos and pilots reported three surface-to-air (SAM) missiles were fired Sunday at two U.S. planes which used evasive action to dodge the missiles.

The Vietnamese government stayed silent on President Nixon's trip to Peking, but newspapers which reflect President Nguyen Van Thieu's views said the communique issued by Rhou En-lai and Nixon Sunday "means Red China will help the U.S. solve the Indochina war."

"The U.S. ceded Taiwan to Red China and in return the Chinese will give the U.S. a free hand to settle the war with the help of Russia," one said. "The Indochina War will only be settled in the end between Russia and the United States."

U.S. spokesman said U.S. 1st Air Cavalry regular troops and Ranger teams ambushed the Communists twice in areas east of Firebase Fiddler's Green, 30 miles northeast of Saigon, and killed eight without suffering casualties themselves.

East of Saigon, other 1st Cavalry troops found three more Viet Cong bodies today in a bunker area blased Saturday night with a giant 15,000 pound bomb dropped from a C130 cargo plane. The bomb was aimed at a bunker line from which guerrillas killed one American and wounded 21 others Friday in an ambush.

U.S. helicopter gunships near Da Nang killed 12 more Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Sunday while supporting South Vietnamese troops in the area.

In a delayed report, the Vietnamese command reported the city of Hue hit by four 122 millimeter rockets Saturday night, injuring two children and wrecking two houses. Kontum in the Central Highlands was hit the same night but suffered no casualties.

Spokesmen said a total of 9,000 South Vietnamese troops were fighting inside Cambodia in a three-pronged operation aimed at clearing out border areas.

From Cow Manure To Crude Oil

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)— Agricultural researchers have developed a process for turning cow manure into a marketable type of crude oil.

The California Farm Bureau said scientists have turned to waste products seeking substitutes for pure oil. under newly developed processes, two tons of manure converts into one ton of crude oil, the bureau said.

EMMA AND PHAEDRA
Actually, as often as not we call Emma Mrs. Peel (after the television character) or even M.P. Emma is just about a year old now, and a prettier Calico you've never seen. Her silky, downy coat, intelligence and bright eyes leave no doubt she's a superior cat. Her playmate since childhood (they were raised together) is Phaedra, a sleek, svelt black cat who looks like a miniature panther. We're going to Europe soon and must find a good home for Emma and Phaedra, preferably one in which they can stay together. Both of these well behaved cats are spayed and healthy. As they say in the car ads, they must be seen to be appreciated. Call 457-3980.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Pregnancy And Delivery Place An Added Burden On The Heart

Pregnancy and the delivery process place an added burden on the heart which healthy mothers usually take in stride. Even at rest there is a substantial increase in the cardiac rate. The 40 to 50 per cent increase in the mass of circulating blood also adds to the load on the cardiovascular system. These and other cardiac changes are due to increased body weight and fetal growth, high position of the diaphragm, bending of the large blood vessels, and sluggish circulation in the lower extremities. And with activity, the heart must pump harder and faster.

A pregnant woman with heart trouble has double the risk. Women known to have this problem should have a thorough examination and evaluation before they decide to get pregnant.

CONGENITA defects and leakage due to rheumatic heart disease are the most common cardiac disorders among women of childbearing age. Some of these abnormalities can be corrected surgically. And some of these procedures can be done during pregnancy, but the risk is much greater than when she is not expecting.

All too often the physician is consulted after conception. He may suggest a therapeutic abortion if the heart condition is severe and there is a slim chance that mother or child will make it. On the other hand, the majority of women will be able to go to term if the demands on the heart are minimized. This means more rest and less activity.

DURING THE last few weeks or months of pregnancy, hospitalization may be necessary to ensure total rest. Other variables that increase the heart's work are anxiety, infections, obesity, and anemia. It also helps to reduce the intake of salt and diuretics may be needed if the lungs and other tissues become congested.

When a heart is in jeopardy, relatively minor changes in rate or rhythm may be serious. It helps to avoid smoking, caffeine and other stimulants including thyroid extract. But nature is also kind in that many women with heart trouble are likely to have smaller babies.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

FLU VACCINE

Mrs. P. writes: Would flu shots help a 6 year old who gets one cold after another?

REPLY

Yes, but these vaccines protect against only a small percentage of possible respiratory infections. Colds are common in this age group and you could use more advice on how they can be avoided.

DISGUISE THE EGG

H. P. writes: My baby gags and refuses to eat the yolk of an egg. Are scrambled eggs just as nutritious?

REPLY

Yes, and are the answer to your problem. Eggs also can be included in puddings, and cookies. If none of these suggestions works, forget eggs for the time being, and concentrate on other solids along with milk.

AFTER A CESAREAN

Mrs. R. D. writes: Is any special type of care needed after a Caesarean birth?

REPLY

No, except that usually recommended after a woman has had a baby and an abdominal operation.

New Show Due At Ross Center

An art show of three-dimensional objects entitled "Fantastic Objects" will be held March 5 through April 1 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Frances Young Gallery of the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Sponsored by the Marin Society of Artists, the show seeks entries "which project from walls, floors, ceilings — objects which move, make noise and in short, become fantastic," according to Maggie Hazell Rosen, vice president of the society.

Following the show on March 5 will be two slide shows, one on the objects on display at the Biennale International of Weaving and Tapestry and the other on a show of woven fabric forms called "Deliberate Entanglements" which was assembled at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Gallinas Center Plans Discussed

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the recreation center to continue its discussion of improvements to and expansion of programs at the center.

The two subjects were discussed by the board last night, according to board secretary Marguerite F. Clark, but no decision was made.

Board members will investigate costs of items such as wall paneling and ceiling improvement prior to next week's meeting, she said.

More Sessions On Architects

Interviews are continuing in the search by the Petaluma Hospital District board for architects to build the new hospital.

District administrator Joseph E. Horner said William L. Pereiera Associates and American Health Facilities asked for the job Thursday.

Horner said the board set a special meeting for next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to interview more architects and to consider possible sites for the hospital.

BOY LEARNS TO READ BY WATCHING TV

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — Jeff Spoeri's mother says that before Jeff was 2, he learned to read by watching television.

At 5, which he just became, he joined older children in a reading program at the public library. In on threemonth period, Jeff read 50 books and wrote reports on eight.

Mrs. Todd Spoeri, who doesn't use the term, may have a genius on her hands: He has developed an interest in science, he can discuss dinosaurs at length and he plays the piano. (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Procedure On Principal Will Be Discussed

The procedure for replacing David Erskine, contro versia. principal at Old Mill School who was reassigned earlier this year, will be discussed by trustees of the Mill Valley School District today.

The district administration has recommended of fo a committee to be composed of administrators, teachers, students and parents to fill the position, held by Erskine for five years. The principal, who was under fire last year for his allegedly overly innovative methods, has been reassigned to Marin Terrace School.

Also on tonight's agenda is consideration of how the district will comply with a state law requiring establishment of a method for evaluating teachers. A task force of seven has been recommended.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. at Park School.

Snowmobiles Fall In Ice, Two Die

AUBURN, N.H. (UPI)—Two persons were killed and five were injured Sunday when nine snowmobiles fell through the ice on Massabesic Lake.

The body of Mrs. Eva Muntz, 36, of Auburn was recovered by police shortly after the accident. Fish and Game Department divers later recovered the body of William Gadzyck, 25, Auburn.

Home's Restoration Will Be Considered

Plan for further restoration and conversion to office space of the home of the first mayor of San Rafael will be among items considered by the San Rafael Planning Commission at its 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

Betty Ford, owner of the structure at 828 Missioc Avenue, will present restoration plans for the exterior of the building for the commission's architectural approval. She is also seeking a permit to convert it to office space.

The Victorian home, built in 1880, was the residence of Mayor Edward C. McCarthy. It wasted away as a men's rooming house for many years until purchased by Mrs. Ford.

The commission Tuesday will also consider setting sign standards for properties having frontage along navigable water ways, and an application by Dr. John E. Lessin to operate an emergency care veterinary clinic at 4240 Redwood Highway.

First Teen-Age Juror — Mistake But Does A Job

SUSANVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — The first teen-age juror in California was chosen by mistake, but she apparently did a good job anyway.

"I was very honored," said Marjorie Ann Owen, 18, a sophomore at Lassen College.

"I was a little nervous at first, but it was quite an educational experince. I'd never been in a courtroom before."

Miss Owen was chosen for jury duty last week in a speeding case, but her selection was an oversight because a new state law allowing 18-year-olds to serve on juries does not go into effect until March 4.

However, attorneys in the case agreed not to challenge her.

Miss Owen said her fellow jurors were "quite pleased" at having a teen-ager on the panel. "Afterward, the judge told me he was happy I was picked," she said. "He told me I did a good job."

The defendant in the case, a truck driver, was acquitted.

Ross Trustees Call Election

In a three-minute special session Friday, the Ross School District board called for an election June 6 to replace trustee H. Jack Wyman, who resigned to devote more time to business.

The same action had been taken at a regular meeting, but the Marin County Elections Department found it unacceptable because it was not an agenda item, according to Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

Marin Tars Vanquished By Skyline

The season is all over for the College of Marin basketball team and although the Tars won 25 of 29 games, there will be no playoffs for them.

Marin ended the season by losing their last two games, the last one by 15 points, 76-61 to Skyline Junior College Saturday night in San Bruno. The previous Wednesday Marin lost to West Valley in Campbell, 60-52.

Camino Norte Conference championship went to Contra Costa College, 108-93 winner over Santa Rosa Junior College in another final game, Saturday. Contra Costa will be taking a 13-1 record into the state playoofs. Marin's runner-up mark is 11-3.

In Saturday night's game, Marin and Skyline were tied at 27-all at the halfway mark, but the roof caved in on the Tars in the second half. Skyline shot 78 per cent from the field in the second half to run away.

It was a limping band of Tars to finish the season. Six-foot-six center Roosevelt Green reinjured his right shoulder during warmups and played perhaps a minute of the game. Forwards Joe Casteel and Ed Herrnberger were playing on sore ankles.

"We were pretty well beaten up," said Marin coach John Panagakis, "but I don't want to alibi about it. We just lost the game."

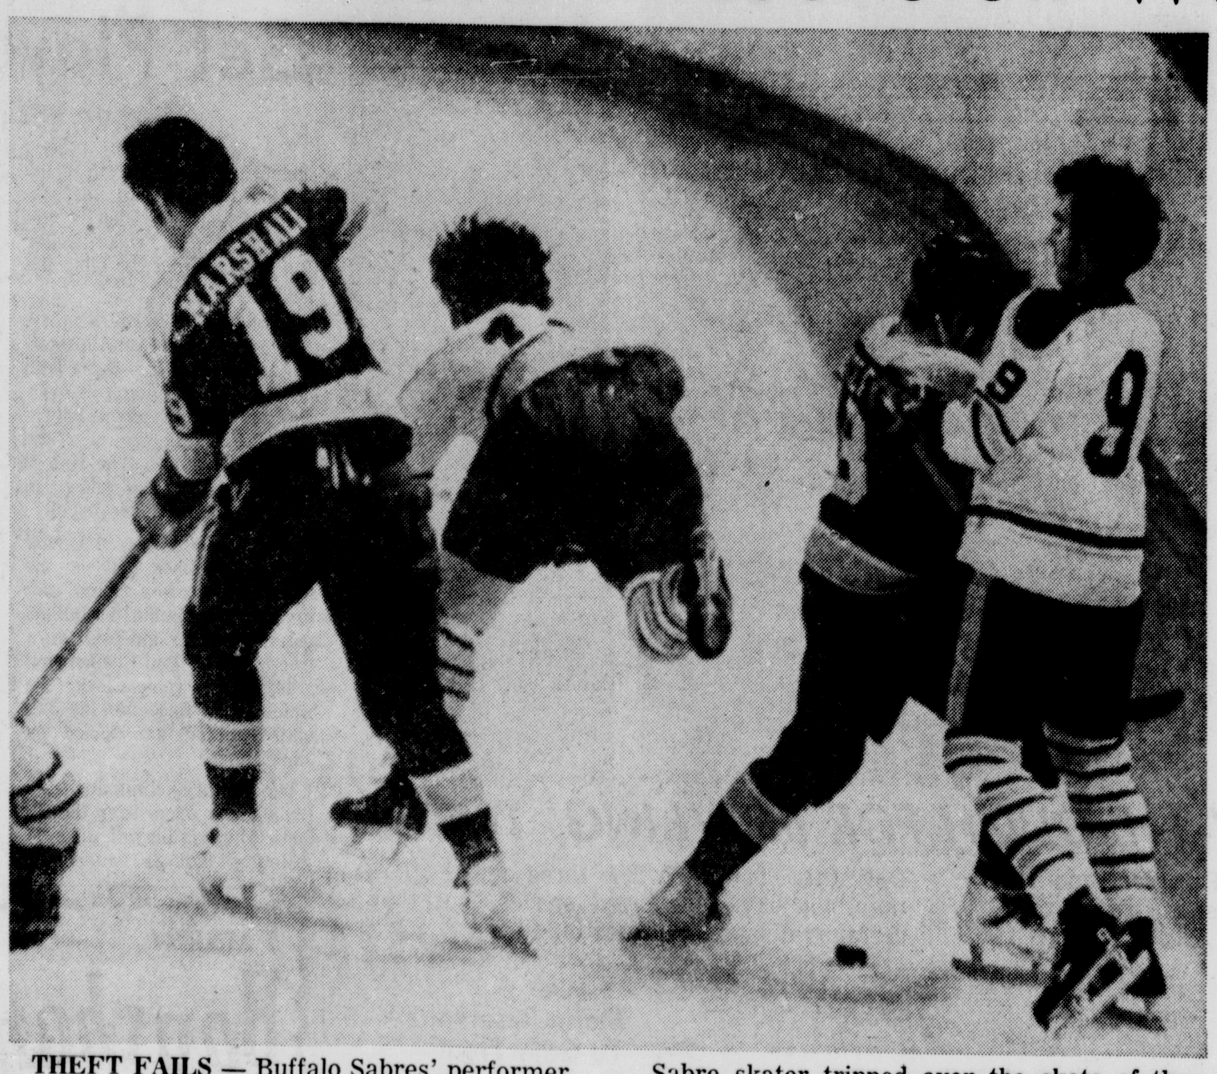

Guard Joe Smith led Marin scoring with 18 points, pushing his school scoring record to 1,146 points in two years. Herrnberger scored 15 and Casteel 13. Freshman Neil Traub, filling in for Green, scored eight points and was strong on the boards.

"They really did a hell of a job," Panagakis said about the Lars. "It's a good group of men. I think it was a great effort for the guys all year. It's too bad we had to let down the last couple of games."

The two-year record for the sophomores on the team was 50 wins, 9 losses, quite a winning margin.

Scoring summary:
Marin — Casteel 5-3-13; Herrnberger 6-3-15; Smith 6-6-18; DeMaestri 1-1-3, Traub 4-0-8, Small 1-0-2. Totals: 24-13—61.
Skyline — Kriletich 9-4-22, Larios 7-2-16, Saco 1-0-2, Reynolds 4-4-12, Conway 6-0-12, Wellemeyer 5-2-12. Totals: 32-12—76.

Buffalo Ties Dissension-Wracked Seals

THEFT FAILS — Buffalo Sabres' performer Gil Perreault (second from left) attempted unsuccessfully to steal the puck from California Seals' player Bert Marshall (19). Perreault's efforts were thwarted when the Sabre skater tripped over the skate of the Seals' Gary Croteau who was checking Danny Lawson (9). The host Buffalo team and the Seals battled to a 4-4 tie.

Californians Lose Lead, Vice President

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The California Golden Seals are trying to break a habit—a habit that's costing them hockey games.

Last Wednesday the Seals ran up a 6-1 lead against the Boston Bruins but blew it and lost 8-6. Sunday night California jumped off to a 3-0 lead against the Buffalo Sabres, blew the margin, and held on to salvage a 4-4 tie.

First period goals by Wayne Carleton and Gerry Pinder and a second period score by Ivan Boldirev made it look like the Seals could name the final score.

But Buffalo came alive after Randy Wyrozub tipped in a rebound from the stick of Don Luce at 15:14 of the second period and Danny Lawson made it 3-2 with a goal at 16:42.

The Sabres tied it up at 3-3 when Jim Lorentz banged-home a 30-footer at 7:32 of the final period. Reg Leach gave California a brief lead with a goal at 9:25 but Buffalo's Jim Watson scored the final goal at 16:59 as he fired a hard slap shot past Seals' goalie Gilles Meloche.

California Coach Vic Stasiuk doesn't know why his club can't hold on to a lead. "We just seem to do it and can't seem to shake it," Stasiuk said.

"I don't know if its immaturity or not. I don't think an old club would do it," he said. "We had them 3-0 and hanging on. We've done it so often this year.

Sabres goalie Roger Crozier turned-away four shots from point-blank range as the Seals opened up with a 18-shot barrage at the Buffalo goal in the first period.

Buffalo's interim coach, Joe Crozier, couldn't say enough about his goaltender after the game.

"Once again," Crozier commented, "Crozier (Roger) has to be the greatest goaltender in this league by a country mile. That score would have been 7-0 in the first period."

Meloche, to no avail, disputed the Lawson goal, arguing that the puck did not cross the goal line.

Meanwhile, Munson Campbell, the man who helped owner Charlie Finley buy the National Hockey League Club, has quit his job as team vice president because of internal dissension.

Munson told Finley during the weekend by mail that he was through and according to the Oakland Tribune, the next man to leave will be General Manager Garry Young.

Reportedly, Campbell and Finley hadn't talked to one another for more than a month. Campbell was the man who used prior connections in the NHL to persuade the league's board of governors to let Finley buy the franchise, based in Oakland, over roller derby impressario Jerry Seltzer two years ago.

Campbell also is the man who brought in Young from the Boston organization. The two are credited with building the Seals franchise into a fairly stable organization in just two seasons. Now, it is being said, Finley wants to run the whole show the way he does his baseball Oakland A's.

According to the Tribune, Young will stay on until after the Stanley Cup Playoffs and then turn in his resignation.

Campbell and Young were in Chicago and refused comment while Finley was believed on his way to Mansfield, Ala., to see if he could sign up holdout baseball pitcher Vida Blue.

Warriors Decision Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors are back in a tie with Seattle in the hostly-contested second place in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division after a successful visit to Houston.

The Warriors pulled up even with the Sonics — 14 ½ games behind Los Angeles — with a 117-104 decision over the Houston Rockets in the Astrodome Sunday night while Seattle was idle.

It was Golden State's eighth win in their last 11 starts and their 24th victory in the last 31 games, but even so the Warriors are just keeping apace of the Sonics.

Nate Thurmond and Cazzie Russell each netted 28 points for the warriors, but it was Jeff Mullins' eight-point spree in the early going that put Golden State ahead for good. Mullins finished with 24 points.

Thurmond and Clyde Lee controlled the boards in the second half to preserve the Warrior lead. Lee finished with 26 rebounds, 18 of them in the second stanza.

The Warriors will host Cincinnati Tuesday night at the Coliseum arena.

Blackburn Wins

CARMICHAEL, Calif. (UPI) —Fred Blackburn of San Francisco won the $600 first prize in Sunday's professional Central California bowler's competition. Blackburn rolled down 224 pins in the match game to runnerup Walter Seidel's 195. Seidel took home $325.

GLEASON TOURNEY

Weiskoph Edges Nicklaus

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Tommy Weiskopf, at age 29, thinks he has finally grown up. Jack Nicklaus thinks so, too, and he ought to know.

Weiskopf Sunday beat Nicklaus and 148 other golfers to win the $52,000 first prize in the year's richest golf tournament, the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

Weiskopf, who beat Nicklaus by a stroke, said after his win: "I think I've grown up a little bit."

Weiskopf settled down to a 68 score Sunday, for a 10-under-par 278 over the 72 holes. Nicklaus shot a final-round 67 to finish at 279.

Part of growing up as a golfer apparently is getting a little mean.

Weiskopf won a pair of tour events last year—the Philadelphia and Kemper Opens—and picked up more than $100,000 in prize money. Weiskopf doesn't think that's enough. He thinks he could be a superstar.

As he put it, Sunday he "beat the best," when he used his putter to down Nicklaus, a fellow Ohio State alumnus and a longtime friend.

Nicklaus left the 15th hole with a two-stroke lead over Weiskopf, who was a hole behind him.

But Weiskopf started blazing with his putter on the 15th and Nicklaus had sudden putting problems at No. 16. Weiskopf sank a 15-foot putt for an eagle while Nicklaus was missing a two-footer and carding a three-putt bogey.

That was the opening Weiskopf needed. It gave him a one-stroke lead that he stretched to two by sinking a 30-footer for a birdie three on the 17th. Nicklaus parred his last two holes. Weiskopf ran into trouble on the par four last hole—shooting a five—but, as he said: "I knew I could win it with a bogey."

The win in the most financially-successful tournament in Florida golf history put Weiskopf's earnings for the year at $62,817. But Nicklaus picked up a $29,000 check for second and surged just ahead of Weiskopf for the money lead with $63,866.

Mac McClendon finished third in the tournament, two strokes behind at 280, after shooting a 70 Sunday and earned $18,000. Tied for fourth at 282 were Chi Chi Rodriguez, Bob E. Smith, Buddy Allin and Tony Jacklin.

Gary Player, who went into the round tied for the lead, blew to a 74 on the deceptively-tough Robert Trent Jones-designed Inverrary course and finished six strokes back at 284.

Napa's Ron Cerrudo and Lee Trevino shot a 73 for a 290 total and Arnold Palmer followed his cghtmarish 80 of Saturday with a 79 Sunday. Palmer said he would take the next week off, skipping the Doral Eastern tournament and playing in the Citrus Open in two weeks.

PALACIO DEFEATS HUTCHINS

Mel Hutchins had the power but Mat Palacio got the glory yesterday by winning the quarterfinal match of the Roos-Atkins San Francisco City Amateur Championship golf tournament at Harding Park, 2-and-1.

Palacio, a 56-year-old automobile salesman from San Rafael, used an effective short game and excellent putting to neutralize Hutchins' strength off the tee.

"He outdrove me 40-50 yards on every hole," said Pawcio, who was able to avoid a smashed ego only because "I never watched him swing all day."

Palacio took the lead for good on the 15th hole when he sank a chip shot. He reached the semifinals for the first time in some 30 attempts dating back to 1935.

A former State Amateur champion (1936), Palacio will play his semifinal match next wekend against Bruce Robertson, a Stanford University sophomore who defeated Dan Johnson of Fresno State yesterday, 2-and-1.

BONNIE GUTHRIE

Novato Gal Wins Title In Bowling

Bonnie Guthrie of Novato won the singles and Pat Weddell and Bea Hoffman teamed up to take the doubles in the Marin County Women's Bowling Association championship tournament which wound up yesterday at Country Club Bowl, San Rafael.

According to unofficial results, Bonnie won the singles with a three-game series score of 671, including handicap. Lu Sharp was runner-up with 658. Mrs. Weddell and Mrs. Hoffmann had a doubles score of 1,271 to win over second place finishers Bobbie Emmons and Mary Casteen, 1,246.

Team event winner was Bob Lippi Signs, 2,453, and second was Rich Readimix, 2,432. All-Events winner was Lu Sharp, 1,700 scratch and 1,844, including handicap.

Eighty-two teams competed in the event, held the past two weekends, and bowlers divided a $1,475 prize fund. Penny Tauscher rolled the highest series, 628, and high individual games were rolled by Merna McIntosh, 246, and Lu Sharp, 243. In a novel bit of bowling, Barb Swisher rolled a 528 series score in each event — singles, doubles and team.

AT GIANTS CAMP

Kingman Shines At Third Base

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Juan Marichal, Tito Fuentes and Ron Bryant remain holdouts today but the San Francisco Giants don't seem the least bit upset.

The reason for joy in the Giants camp is the way Dave Kiingman handled himself Sunday during a long workout at third base.

Kingman is the lad who came up from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League late last year and helped the Giants win the National League West.

Ordinarily a first baseman, Kingman isn't about to dislodge Willie McCovey. Neither is there room for him in an outfield made up of Ken Henderson in left, Willie Mays in center and Bobby Bonds in right.

Since manager Charlie Fox wants to get Dave's big bat into the lineup somewhere, this spring he has the former star at the University of Southern California working out at third base.

"If he can make it at third, we will be stronger this year than we were last," said manager Fox. "I'd like to see him do it because then I could put him in the lineup just ahead of McCovey. That should create a lot of problems for opposing pitchers."

Kingman, who stands 6-6, is agile for a big man, and he has quick hands. That's why the Giants feel, with a lot of work this spring, he can make it as a third baseman.

Kingman did a lot to impress Fox and the other Giants Sunday as he handled himself in fine fashion at the hot corner.

The Giants worked a full two hours in the hot Arizona sun and Fox said "the club is in as good shape or better condition than at the corresponding period last year."

Meanwhile, there was no word from Marichal, an 18-12 pitcher last year, Fuentes, who hit .273 and was a sparkplug at second base, and Bryant, the stubby lefthander who has yet to live up to his potential.

No one seems to know why Fuentes and Bryant are holdouts but Marichal reportedly is asking for a $20,000 raise of the $120,000 he worked for last year.

A's Sign Green; Vida Shuns Camp

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—With spring training more than a week underway, it looks like southpaw ace Vida Blue will be the last man to come to terms with Oakland A's owner Charles Finley—if they ever do get together.

Second baseman Dick Green signed his contract Sunday, leaving only two men out in the cold—Blue and another hurler, rookie Gilberto Marcano. Marcano is reportedly ready to sign.

There is a great distance between Blue and Finley—exactly $42,000. Finley is offering $50,000 and points out Blue will be the highest paid second-year man ever in the game if he takes it.

But Blue's agent, attorney Robert Gerst, is holding out for $92,000 and says his man is worth every penny of it because he is the A's biggest drawing card. Blue earned $14,750 last year in his first season with Oakland.

Blue will become an official holdout March 1 and so far he and Finley aren't talking.

Meanwhile, the A's went through their first full-scale drill of the season Sunday at Mesa. Absent were Mike Hegan, down with a stomach disorder; and Reggie Jackson, who is recovering from the flu.

Before taking the field, the A's took an hour-long motivation test given by San Jose State college Psychiatry Professor, Dr. Tom Tutko.

Mrs. Bailey Triumphs In City Golf

Mrs. Melinda Bailey won her first-round match in the San Francisco City Amateur golf tournament yesterday because somebody else came up with a good drive in a crucial spot.

Mrs. Bailey, a Novato resident and wife of College of Marin track coach Tony Bailey, defeated Helen Cruickshank, 2-up, with a great chip shot on the 18th hole at Harding Park.

Clinging to a 1-up lead, Mrs. Bailey hit her approach shot over the green, and it ended up under the tire of a parked Oldsmobile. A vigorous argument ensued about whether the automobile was a moveable or immoveable instruction, and whether there should be a free or penalty drop.

While this was going on, the owner came by and drove the car away. Aided by this "drive," Mrs. Bailey dribbled a three-iron onto the green, sank a four-foot putt for a par, and won the hole and the match.

"Her backswing on the chip shot was restricted by a fence," said her husband.

Mrs. Bailey had been 3-up with three holes remaining, but lost Nos. 16 and 17.

Ronald Reagan Wants Son Like Namath

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan says he wants his 13-year-old son to grow up to play football like Joe Namath but be more selective in his tackling.

"The only thing I really know about Joe Namath," said the governor, "is that he's been an able and certainly courageous football player and a fine leader for his team. I'd like to see my son play football. In that sense I'd like to see Skipper emulate him.

"Except that I'd suggest he think twice about tackling somebody with an intercepted pass near the sideline."

Namath banged up a knee during an exhibition game while attempting to tackle a player who intercepted one of his passes and missed most of the 1971 season.

Hamilton To Fight Vasquez Tonight

SAN CARLOS, Calif. (UPI)—Light heavyweight Chuck Hamilton, former state titleholder, will try to get another title shot tonight with a hoped-for victory over Amado Vasquez in a 10-round bout in the Circle Star Theater.

Hamilton, inactive much of last year, had a 14-9-0 record through 1970 with eight knock outs. Vasquez, who lost a split decision to undefeated Mike Quarry, was 9-6-1 through 1970.

Reveal Wins Race

PINECREST, Calif. (UPI)—Ski instructor John Reveal of Bear Valley, Calif. raced through the gates in 1:17.5 Sunday to win the 11th Annual Far West Ski Association Divisional Veterans Giant Slaloms held at Dodge Ridge. Reveal's time through the 35-gate, 4,500-foot run was better than 106 other entries from California and Nevada.

Marinites Lose Lacrosse Game In Pebble Beach

The Northern California Lacrosse Association junior all-stars were defeated yesterday in Pebble Beach by the Robert Louis Stevenson School, 12-2, in the second renewal of a perpetual series.

Alan Little and Dennis Davidson, both representing the Novato Parks and Recreation department, scored the NCLA's two goals.

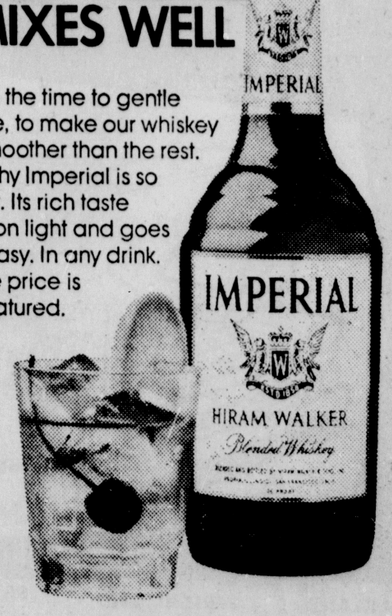

The juniors (ages 15-18) open their regular season March 12. The league has five members — Corte Madera LaCross Club, Church of Latter Day Saints of Novato, Novato Parks and Recreation Department, San Francisco Lacrosse Club and San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

Park Sets Mark In Rangers' Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Brad Park Feels he has the ideal situation.

"I can't help but get assists as long as I keep playing with Jean Ratelle, Vic Hadfield and Rod Gilbert," said Park, who tied a club record for assists Sunday night as the New York Rangers blanked the St. Louis Blues 2-0. "I just pass them the puck and bing, bang, bing."

Park set up Bruce MacGregor's second period goal for his 46th assist of the season, tying the club record set by Bill Gadsby in 1958-59. It also gave Park 65 points for the season, making him only the second defenseman in national Hockey League history ever to reach that plateau. Boston's Bobby Orr has done it three times.

DROUGHT ENDED

MacGregor's goal, his 17th, ended an eight-game drought and stood up until Hadfield collected an open net goal just four seconds from the finish. Ratelle assisted on that goal, marking the 13th consecutive game in which he has recorded at least a point and moving him to within one point of Boston's Phil Esposito for the league scoring lead.

Ed Giacomin, who recorded eitht shutouts last season, stopped 28 shots to pick up his first of this season.

MONTREAL WINS

In other NHL Action, Montreal rallied to defeat Pittsburgh 5-3, Philadelphia defeated Detroit 3-1, Chicago tied Vancouver 3-3 and Buffalo and California skated to a 4-4 tie.

Yvan Cournoyer's third period power play goal provided the winning margin and Peter Mahovlich clinched the game with his second goal with just nine seconds left as Montreal beat the Penguins. The Canadiens trailed 3-1 in the second period but goals by Frank Mahovlich and Brother Pete's first goal tied the score in the third period. Cournoyer collected his 33rd goal at 4:53 and Peter Mahovlich fired into an open net in the final minute.

THIRD GOAL

Mike Parizeau's third goal of the season snapped a tie and Ross Lonsberry's third period goal insured Philadelphia's victory over the red Wings. Parizeau, a rookie, scored on an assist from Lonsberry at 8:41 of the second period and Lonsberry outhustled Detroit goalie Al Smith to score his third period goal.

Third period goals by Dennis Hull and Bill White, the latter coming with just over two minutes to play, earned the Black Hawks their tie with Vancouver. The Canucks had taken a 3-1 lead on goals by John Schella, Ron Stewart and Andre Boudrias before Hull and White connected.

A FOLLOW-THROUGH FOR BOWLING, TOO

Sue Martinelli, Mari Peterson and Sue Stolken (left to right) demonstrated three forms of body English at Westlake Bowl in Daly City yesterday. The three cute keglers may not have converted spares, but they certainly displayed interesting forms.

New York Knicks Get Playoff Spot

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Knicks have clinched a playoff berth in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division — and appropriately it was "Dollar Bill" who scored the clinching point.

"Dollar Bill" is Bill Bradley, the former Princeton All-America, who sank a free throw with one second remaining in overtime Sunday afternoon, clinching a 97-95 victory over the Baltimore Bullets. The Knicks expect to meet the Bullets in the first round of the playoffs.

The Knicks took a 96-92 lead with 38 seconds left in the overtime period on a jump shot by Earl Monroe but the Bullets cut the lead to one point on a free throw by Phil Chenier and a layup by Archie Clark. The Knicks then fled onto the ball until Bradley was fouled by Jack Marin.

The victory eliminated the Philadelphia 76ers from the Atlantic Division playoff race.

Monroe had 21 points and Bradley 18 for the Knicks while Clark tallied 23 for the Bullets.

In other NBA games, Phoenix rallied to beat Cleveland 127-125, Golden State downed Houston 117-104, Atlanta got by Portland 113-110, and Los Angeles topped Chicago 123-118 in overtime.

The Phoenix Suns overcame an 18-point third-period deficit to beat the Cavaliers on Dennis Layton's three-point play with five seconds left in the game. Layton who was averaging 8.8 points a game, came off the bench in the first period to score 37 points for the suns. John Johnson and Rich Roberson scored 26 each for the Cavs.

Lou Hudson scored 30 points and Pete Maravich added 26 as Atlanta beat the Trail Blazers. Sidney Wicks led the Blazers with 32 points. Bob Christian and Maravich of the Hawks and Dale Schlueter and Larry Steele of the Blazers were involved in separate fights during the game.

Marin Matmen Are Shut Out In North Coast

Wrestling season is over in Marin County a couple of weeks earlier than the wrestlers themselves hoped it would be.

In the North Coast Sectional championships held Saturday at Mt. Diablo High School in Concord, no Marin grapplers placed high enough to qualify for next Saturday's North State Invitational tournament.

Ellard Roush (194 pounds) of Redwood High School and Brian Jordan (168) of Terra Linda each finished sixth to lead the Marin contingent. Jordan might have advanced farther, but injured his ankle in winning his second match and had to forfeit his third, according to coach Bob Hetherington.

Marin Team Last In Relays

The College of Marin track team finished seventh (last) in the Camino Norte Conference relays Saturday at De Anza College in Cupertino, scoring 27 points. Contra Costa College of San Pablo won with 109.

Marin's best performance came in the distance medley, when the team of Bill La Haye, Steve Silvey, Vian Collier and Mike Arago finished third in 10:38.2.

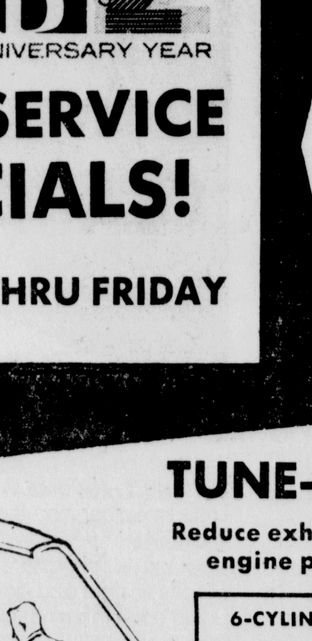

Marin's league dual-meet season opens Friday at 3 p.m. against West Valley Junior College of Campbell on Marin's Kentfield track.

Pepperdine '5' Grounded

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

RENO, Nev. — College basketball coach Gary Colson was certainly correct on one point. Just as he said, "the stewardess made a Federal case out of it."

Colson's Pepperdine College team squeezed out an 89-88 victory over the University of Nevada-Reno Saturday and boarded a western airlines jetliner here yesterday for the flight home.

The team was, the coach said, in high spirits.

That may have been the problem. The airline said one of the stewardesses heard a player saying that his companions were hijackers, and the plane was going to be skyjacked to Florida. The stewardess told the pilot as he taxied out for takeoff.

The pilot radioed the control tower and taxied back to the passenger ramp — where the Federal Bureau of Investigation removed the eight-man team, two coaches and a referee who was flying with them.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) has suspended Dave Smith, a senior basketball player at Western Carolina (N.C.) WINE NOTES #2
In order for us to accommodate our extensive selection of American wines, we are undertaking a considerable amount of shelf remodeling and additions. We hope to be finished in about three months so forgive us if we seem a bit disorganized for a while.
We have had great response to our wine selection. Customers are coming from San Francisco, Stinson Beach, Sausalito, Novato — all over the Bay Area to look, and, thank the grape, to purchase. Many of the wineries we feature are practically impossible to find anywhere (except Beltramo's!) in the Bay Area. Wineries like Ridge, Oakville, Z&D, Kenwood, Chalone, Davis Bynum, St. Michelle, and many others are available at your friendly neighborhood Bourbon Shop. And more wineries are being added to our selection. We taste wines very frequently, and when we discover a good wine, we put it in. Soon we hope to have available wines from several other California wineries and will announce their arrival in future wine notes.
While we are presently concentrating our efforts on California wines, we are not ignoring imports. We especially call to your attention our excellent Wine of the Month selection, Chateau Beausejour 1967. At $2.79 the bottle, this is an exceptional value. And Isabel Rose! In a blind tasting of our managers Isabel was chosen over two other Portuguese Roses, one of which was Mateus. We recommend it highly.

COACH SAYS

San Rafael B's Beat Pressure

"Pressure," in practice and in games, was the constant companion of the San Rafael High School Class B basketball team throughout its march to the Marin County Athletic League championship.

The Bulldogs compiled a 12-3 league record, but rarely had an easy day. They won five crucial games by a combined total of 10 points, and had to rally from a nine-point deficit to win another one.

"There was so much pressure all year long that we didn't realize we had a winning streak going until it reached eight games," said coach Bill Monti. San Rafael won 12 straight after dropping its first two.

"They were the kind of kids who really responded well to pressure," Monti continued. "We played 10 guys with some regularity all year, and they were almost all the same in ability."

Monti introduced extra pressure into practice sessions, and claims it helped get the team ready for the tense games. Any time a player made a mistake on offense — bad pass, missed shot, failure to take a good shot — he was instantly jerked.

"The kids hated it," Monti admits. "Three of them came in and complained about it at one point. But the system enabled them to sit down and think over why they made a mistake. Soon they began taking only the shots they could hit, and when they began hitting regularly they developed confidence. And their concentration improved."

Monti cited the case of guard Matt Dockstader, who hit a shot at the buzzer to win a crucial game against second-place Drake, 49-48. "Matt built up confidence under the system and eventually became the team leader."

Forward Nelson Moore led the team in scoring with a 10.8 average, and center Steve Bianchini was another valuable scorer at 6.7. Guard James White "was our control player who didn't ever panic," according to Monti.

"It wasn't fun," said Monti of the tense season. "There was pressure, but you have to learn to live with it."

Lolich-Detroit Dispute Remains

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Mickey Lolich didn't seem to care when his 25 victories for the Detroit Tigers didn't win him any top awards for 1971 but he appears determined that his achievement will put him in a six-figure salary bracket.

Lolich shrugged it off during the winter when 24-game winner Vida Blue of the Oakland Athletics won the American League's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young awards. He obviously thought his reward would come when he saw his 1972 contract.

But Lolich and the Tigers are far apart in their negotations with Mickey believed to be asking about $135,000 and the Tigers offering something below the six-figure level.

Lolich submitted his latest salary demand via attorney Bob Fenton Sunday and Detroit General Manager Jim Campbell replied, "it is totally unacceptable —and you can spell that with a capital T."

First baseman Norm Cash of the Tigers also remained unsigned although he showed up Sunday at the Tigers' Lakeland, Fla. training site. Cash, who had his best season in 10 years in 1971, also is believed to be asking for a big increase.

Dave McNally, a 21-game winner last season and the only American League pitcher who has been a 20-game winner in each of the last four seasons, signed with the Baltimore Orioles for an estimated $105,000. Mike Cuellar, a 20-game winner for the last three seasons, remains unsigned and is believed to be about $8,000 away from the Baltimore offer.

General Manager Jim Fanning of the Montreal Expos said he will make a new offer to Rusty Staub, a .311-hitter last year, but that the next move is up to pitcher Carl Morton. Morton slipped to a 10-18 record in 1971 after an 18-11 performance in 1970.

In other camps: Sonny Siebert, a 16-game winner last season, signed with the Boston Red Sox...Coach Jim Owens of the Houston Astros said the staff of Don Wilson, Larry Dierker, Ken Forsch and Dave Roberts could be the best in the National League this year....Infielders Bob Valentine and Jim Lefebvre signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Rich Hebner had four hits, including a triple, in the Pittsburgh Pirates' intra-squad game.

No progress was apparent over the weekend in negotiations between the Texas Rangers and Frank Howard, the 6-foot, 7-inch, 270-pound slugger who is seeking a big raise and a multi-year contract... Infielder Steve Braun signed witp the Minnesota Twins...Nate Colbert and rookie outfielder Randy Elliott hit homers in the San Diego Padres' swuad game...Andy Messersmith, a 20-game winner in 1971, is seeking a $60,000 pact with the California Angels.

Ex-Champ Walcott Lifts The Fallen

CAMDEN, N.J. — In his fighting days he believed in knocking people down to get ahead. He has a different philosophy now.

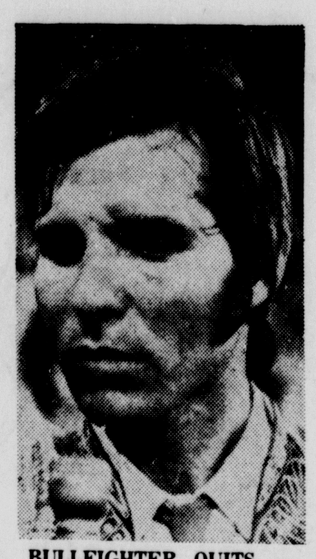

Newly elected sheriff of Camden County is the one-time heavyweight boxing champion, Jersey Joe Walcott, who knocked out Ezzard Charles in 191 to win the title. He won the office by a large majority under his legal name of Arnold Cream.

In his fighting days, he says, "I thought that the fellow who could knock the most people down is the fellow who will reach the top the fastest."

But today: "The fellow who can pick up the guy who is a fallen human being and help him find his way, I think is as great a challenge as boxing. This is what will be done." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate.)

TOM LASORDA

Dodger Aide A Team Man

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tom Lasorda is all set.

He has his own personal tombstone ready and beveled so it can easily be placed in the ground come Judgement Day and if you're wondering what's so unusual about that, maybe this is as good a place as any to explain he keeps the thing in his house.

The stone, made of solid marble and weighing somewhere around 50 pounds, was a gift from Walter O'Malley.

Tom Lasorda has been with the Los Angeles Dodgers 23 years man and boy. He has pitched for them, svuted for them and managed for them in the minors. Last year he managed Spokane in the Pacific Coast League. The Dodgers have moved their Triple A affiliate to Albuquerque so that's where he'll manage this year. He just finished handling the Caracas Lions of the Venezuelan Winter League.

Walter O'Malley presented the tombstone to the stocky, 44-year-old Lasorda because that's all he kept hearing him talk about all the time.

"I love the Dodgers," says Lasorda unabashedly. "I love 'em so much I wanna keep working for 'em even after I die. I told Red Patterson (club vice-president), that when I'm buried I want the Dodgers' schedule on my tombstone so that anyone who comes to visit my grave can see whether the Dodgers are home or not that night."

That schedule arrangement naturally will have to be worked out a little later. For the moment, Tom's tombstone has his name carved into it along with the inscription:

"Dodger Stadium was his address but every ball park was his home."

Lasorda is very proud of the tombstone. He's almost as proud of it as he is of winning the Minor League Manager of the Year award in 1970 when he led Spokane to the PCL pennant by a record 26 games.

There are very few things in this world Tom Lasorda doesn't think he can do. Generally, he turns out to be right.

Some years ago, for example, he heard an outfielder by the name of Leo Posada was considered the undisputed champ of a game known as "pickups" in which one fellow tosses a baseball first to his left and then to his right with the other fellow picking up the ball and tossing it back to him.

Lasorda diligently sought out Posada talked to him about pickups and said:

"I can do one more than you can."

Posada didn't think so. They decided to settle the matter on the field of honor.

The first day Posada did 100 pickups; Lasorda did 101. The second day Posada went to 200; Lasorda did 201. On the sixth day, Posada had the total up to 600; Lasorda did 601.

"I quit," said Leo Posada.

Some time later, Lasorda announced to one and all in the Dodgers' camp he could pitch batting practice four hours straight.

"For how much?" Don Newcombe challenged him.

"For all the money you can put up," Lasorda replied.

There was a lot of money riding on both sides when Buzzy Bavasi, then the Dodgers' general manager, got wind of what was going on and broke up the whole thing.

"He'll either do it or die on the mound out there," said Bavasi. "That's the way he is. He's got the heart of a lion."

This is Lasorda's unvarnished version of the episode and you're perfectly free to accept or reject it. Others who were eyewitnesses, like Al Campanis, confirm that's exactly the way it happened.

One thing is sure. Not too many in the game give as much to it as Tom Lasorda. He should make someone a good major league manager some day. When the day comes Walt Alston figures he has had enough, the Dodgers would be hard put to find a better replacement than Lasorda. Nobody knows the Dodgers' kid prospects any better, mostly since he has had them someplace one time or another.

One evening in Caracas this winter, Lasorda went to the mound and pitched batting practice for two hours and if that doesn't impress you too much try doing it for 10 minutes yourself sometime.

"No strain," Lasorda reported upon finishing his little chore. "No strain at all. I enjoy throwing a baseball. To me it's like kissing a girl. Uh . . . maybe you better make that 'it's like kissing your wife.' If I say it the other way, she might have a little trouble understanding."

ABA ROUNDUP

Gilmore Paces Kentucky Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Artis Gilmore's contention that he is essentially a defensive player is shaping up as the joke of the season in the American Basketball Association — except that it isn't funny to the Kentucky Colonels' rivals.

Gilmore, the 7-foot, 2-inch rookie sensation of the league, turned "offensive" Sunday night and scored 33 points while leading the Colonels to a 135-112 triumph over the Floridians.

Gilmore hit 11 field goals and 11 of 11 free throws as the Colonels beat the Floridians for the eighth straight time this season. Five other Colonels scored in double figures while Larry Jones was high for the Floridians with 28.

The New York Nets scored a club record 49 points in the first period and went on to defeat the Pittsburgh Condors, 131-123, at Pittsburgh. Bill Melchionni scored 30 points and Rick Barry had 29 for the Nets while George Thompson scored 41 for the Condors.

Ralph Simpson scored 22 points and Dave Robisch and 21 as the Denver Rockets beat the Carolina Cougars, 113-105. Julius Key put the Rockets ahead for good when he snapped a 98-98 tie with five minutes left with a field goal. Stu Johnson had 26 points for Carolina.

SONOMA WRESTLER HONORED

Sonoma State College's Joe Alvarado capped off a brillant season by being named Most Outstanding Wrestler at the Far Western Conference Wrestling Championships held at Humboldt State College in Arcata Saturday.

Alvarado won the 134-pound championship to bring Sonoma State its individual champion in the school's history.

Other Cossack wrestlers to place were Ron Lundsford who took third in the 167-pound class and 142-pound Steve Conner placing fifth.

The Cossacks took fifth overall with 18 points. San Francisco State won with 62, three points better than runnerup Chico State.

Vallejo, Petaluma In Playoff

Exponents of the old adage "you can't win for winning," Petaluma High School will meet twice-defeated Vallejo High School in a playoff game tonight at 8 p.m. in the Sonoma Stae College gym to determine the North Bay League's second representative to the Top of the Bay basketball classic to be held later this week.

This play-off was made necessary when Petaluma lost its final NBL game to Santa Rosa High School and Vallejo lost to Napa High School, leaving Petaluma, Vallejo and Napa tied for first-place with 9-3 records.

The league's Board of Directors voted, in an unprecedented move, to draw one name out of a hat and for the other two schools to hold a play-off last Saturday, with the loser (Vallejo) meeting the school drawn (Petaluma).

Petaluma beat the Apaches twice in leaguethis year, 78-67 in Vallejo and 88-67 at Petaluma.

Vallejo is led by 6-foot-6 center Harold Boyden who scored 20 points in the Apaches' loss in Petaluma, and guard Ray Martin.

The Old Philsopher Proved Right In Accepting A Gift

"The man who doesn't look a gift horse in the mouth is a jackass," said the Old Philosopher. We all looked at our watches and started to say that we were already an hour late for other engagements, but the OP is a hard man to stop when he has a captive audience. "The hand that ended the last rubber is a perfect example of a meeting between a gift horse and a jackass," he continued.

NO NAMES

"I'll mention no names," the Old Philosopher related, "but West opened the jack of spades. A club would have been better, but the spade lead wasn't really bad.

"Declarer wondered why he had bid a slam, as though he didn't know. He has been a congenital overbidder all his life, and he hadn't changed the practice of a lifetime in this case. After some thought he saw a chance for his 'unmakable' slam.

"South took the ace of spades, led a spade to the king and returned a spade, ruffing in his hand with the ten of hearts.

POUNCES ON TRICK

"West pounced on this trick, overruffing with the jack of hearts. He even said 'Thanks,' because he thought he was getting a gift."

"That's because I was taught good manners," said one of the little group at the bar of our bridge club. "Maybe if all of us had been taught good manners, nobody would be telling this long story."

"The story's almost over," said the Old Philosopher. "South won the club shift with the ace, drew a round of trumps with the ace and then led the four of trumps to dummy's seven. Trumps were all gone, and South could discard his losers on dummy's good spades.

AS A BOY

"South would have been down one if West hadn't accepted that gift. When I was a boy, I was taught not to accept a gift the first time it was offered."

"Ancient history," jeered the man who had been West. But the Old Philosopher had made his point.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Some Valuable Tips About Deductions In Line Of Work

The Internal Revenue Code allows individuals to take a deduction for ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred (1) for the production and collection of income; (2) for the management, conservation or maintenance of property held for the production of income; or (3) in connection with the determination, collection or refund of any tax.

The expenses of commuting between your residence and any business location situated within the area of your tax home are not deductible, regardless of distance, or different locations on different days.

If you haul tools, etc., in your car in commuting to and from your place of business for your convenience, the cost of operating the car is nondeductible. However, if you cannot store the tools, etc., at the place you work, of if you work at different locations every day, and also you would not have used your car except for hauling tools, etc., which are too bulky or heavy to be carried otherwise, the expense may be deductible.

Work clothes and uniforms are deductible if your occupation is one which specifically requires special apparel or equipment as a condition of employment and it is not adaptable to general or continued usage so as to take the place of ordinary clothing.

Some occupations require safety shoes and helmets, others require work gloves, oil clothes and rubber boots, such as are worn by commercial fishermen. Costs of these are deductible.

School teachers. Amounts which you pay for a substitute teacher to take your place are deductible. However, you are not entitled to this deduction to the extent that it is allocable to amounts excluded as sick pay.

Subscriptions to professional journals, etc., relating to your business or profession.

Membership dues in professional societies.

Union dues.

Small tools and supplies.

Employment agency fees.

Physical examination fees paid by you and required by your employer to establish your physical fitness to retain your job.

Moving expenses for a new job.

Traveling expenses not reimbursed by your employer.

Entertainment expenses not reimbursed by your employer.

School teachers' sabbatical leave expenses.

Use of your home in your work.

Attorneys' and accountants' fees on tax matters.

Automobile expenses not reimbursed by your employer.

Educational expenses.

These and many more items are deductible if you know the rules.

Early-Hour Market Is Ahead

NEW YORK (UPI) —Traders pushed the stock market slightly ahead during the first two hours today. Turnover on the New York Stock Exchange was active.

The news background was mixed. The Commerce Department reported the government's index of leading business indicators rose a sharp 2.3 per cent in January. Also encouraging was the report that machine tool orders in January were well ahead of the year-earlier period although they were lower than in December.

Offsetting this news, however, was another Commerce Department report showing the U. S. trade deficit in January was $318.9 million, the third largest monthly excess of imports over exports in the nation's history.

With 1,584 issues crossing the tape, 771 advanced and 476 declined. The two-hour volume was more than 8,100,000 shares.

Prices were mixed in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Vernitron Corp. was the most active Amex issue, up 5-8 at 7 3-8 on 51,900 shares.

One of the most active NYSE issues was Kitton Industries, off 2 7-8. The company announced a second quarter loss of $8.75 million compared with a year-earlier profit of $11.9 million.

Federal Guideline Defied

By S. M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The Philadelphia Stock Exchange has takington Stock Exchange has taken a firm stand on its form of institutional membership and has been defying federal guidelines.

The P-B-W has been the leading regional market for the brokerage affiliates of mutual funds, insurance companies, and other institutions in recent years. These affiliates are used primarily to recapture sales commissions.

But the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has come forward with its long-awaited recommendations On institutional membership that would ban the type of arrangements permitted on the P-B-W exchange.

The P-B-W's 40 institutional members account for roughly half the trading volume on the exchange. This means there is a major economic incentive for the P-B-W to defend its membership rules against any SEC intervention.

Elkins Wetherill, exchange president, has been given authority by the board of governors to oppose the federal agency. This could well mean a time-consuming struggle in the courts, if not a battle over legislative proposals in Congress.

In a statement recently, Wetherill said: "We have seen no argument that would convince us that our membership policy is not in the public interest." He said the P-B-W's experience has demonstrated the present policy to be "valuable to the investing public, the members, and the exchange." He added that "institutuional membership has provided millions of (small) investors in mutual funds and life insurance with the means of reducing their investment cost."

In its recent position paper, the SEC asserted: "We believe that such membership and practices that permit the rebate or recapture of commissions, directly or indirectly, should be eliminated. The commission intends to act promptly to terminate this type of membership."

The SEC put its finger on the heart of the issue: The regionals have gained a competitive advantage over the New York Stock Exchange, because the Big Board does not allow institutions to join.

The SEC is aware that a conflict of interest tends to exist under institutional membership and that this conflict may not be in the best interests of the millions of investors whose savings are managed by such intermediaries as mutual funds or pension funds.

For example, a mutual-fund management company with a brokerage affiliate on the P-B-W exchange can channel the trading for its investment portfolio through this affiliate. Under fixed-commission charges it must pay commissions to that affiliate to have its trades executed.

The conflict arises when the manager can benefit personally through the commissions he received by making those trades. The SEC feels that his sole motivation in buying or selling stocks for the fund portfolio should be to maximize the return for the fund's shareholders.

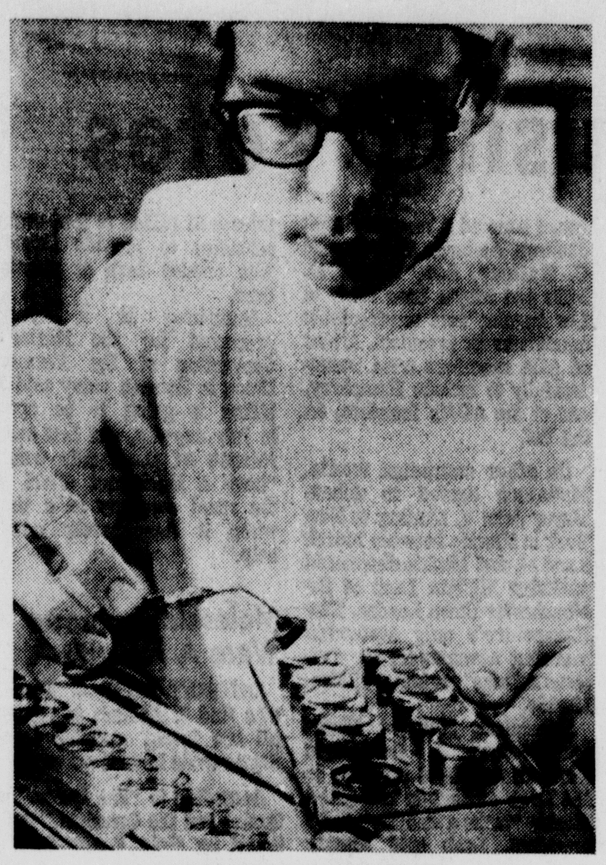

The SEC ruled that it would be perfectly all right for institutions to have brokerage affiliates as exchange members but said these affiliates should do a "predominant portion" of their business with nonaffiliated investors.

It defined "predominant" as "significantly more than half" and later refined this to "significantly more than two-thirds" and perhaps as much as 90 per cent.

Regardless of the vagueness of the definition, the SEC's intent is clear —to prevent institutions from joining stock exchanges primarily to recapture sales commissions. And it said it would "formally request" the exchanges to comply.

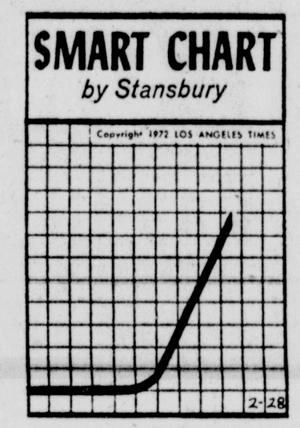

The P-W-B exchange contended that the SEC may not have the power to force through such policy changes, and it was considering taking the issue to court if the federal agency lived up to its word.

THE CLEAN ROOM

A target for a television camera tube is transferred to a protective storage tray in the "clean room" at an RCA plant at Lancaster, Pa. A metal cover, like the others already in position, will keep the target dust-free until needed for assembly. A speck of dust on the target would appear boulder-sized to the TV viewer. Thus, the need for the ultra-clean rooms at the plant. (UPI Telephoto)

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Writer Wonders Why No Answer

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have written twice previously but have not received information on my question. What is your opinion of SCM Corp.? — E.M.

A. Because of the volume of mail received, it is not possible to give each inquiry the carefully considered reply it requires. Therefore, not all letters are answered.

Questions of broad investor interest, those which draw attention to significant group and stock trends or those pointing up problem aras in the securities industry are selected for the column. Further, as many letters as possible are answered personally with priority given to those demonstrating the greatest need for financial guidance.

SCM management stated that despite an extraordinary write-off in the current fiscal year, a profit will still be reported. First half earnings gained 42 per cent on a 4.5 per cent increment in sales. While problems exist in three divisions, namely vacuum cleaners, military telecommunications and calculators, it is in the latter area that the greatest difficulties have been encountered. Write-offs, if taken, will be only in this division.

Although sales have moved ahead consistently, earnings have dropped from a peak of $2.89 in 1967 to 77 cents before a $1.01 a share special charge in fiscal 1971. A significant charge-off was taken in fiscal 1970 also. Although new management may succeed in turning the tide for this NYSE company, shares have little investor appeal at present.

Q. I would like a definition of long-term investment. It surprised me to hear long term defined as two-to-three years. I thought it was 10 or more years. — J.T.

A. This term when applied to bonds generally means maturities of five years or more. However, used with equity investments there is greater ambiguity, except from a tax standpoint when the distinction is cut and dried; less than six months — short term, more than six months — long term. In this column short term generally refers to one year or less, medium term 12-to-24 months and long term from two years on.

Three Demos Vow Busing Votes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Three of the five Senate Democrats who were rebuked for being on the presidential trail when a tough antibusing amendment was adopted by the Senate last week have pledged to be in Washington when the measure is reconsidered Tuesday.

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Edmund S. Muskie and George S. McGovern said they would forego campaign appearances to join in an attempt by liberals to reverse Friday's vote approving an amendment that would forbid federal courts from ordering busing to achieve racial integration.

Aides for the other two Democratic hopefuls in the Senate —Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Vance Hartke — said today it still was uncertain whether they would be back.

All five were absent when the amendment, sponsored by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., passed 43 to 40. All except possibly Jackson likely would have voted against the amendment, so their absence spelled the difference in its passage.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield sent them telegrams over the weekend asking them to be present for the vote.

The Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) also rebuked the five, calling on them to be present for the vote "in the name of common decency."

Humphrey, a founder of the ADA and an early supporter of civil rights legislation, told a weekend black convention in Milwaukee he was prepared to cut out all his appearances while the issue was being considered and he asked his colleagues to do the same.

Humphrey said he would be present because he was not going to "let anyone tear out the pages" of civil rights history he helped write.

McGovern and Muskie also issued statements.

"No one's political career—not mine and not the frantic reelection campaign of the senator from Michigan (Griffin)—is worth that damage," McGovern said in a statement denouncing the antibusing amendment.

McGovern said in Tallahassee Sunday that he would cut short his campaigning for New Hampshire's March 7 primary and Florida's March 14 referendum to participate in "all of the debate and all of the votes necessary to defeat Sen. Griffin's amendment."

Muskie called off a rally in Columbus, sponsored by the Ohio United Auto Workers community action program council, to be in the Senate Tuesday.

Humphrey's schedule already listed Wednesday afternoon for Senate business. Jackson was scheduled to be in Florida and Hartke in New Hampshire.

In addition to the voting criticism, the ADA's national board adopted a resolution that Jackson, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills and Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles were unacceptable candidates for president. A bloc of ADA members tried unsuccessfully to include Humphrey, one of the ADA's founders, on the list.

On other campaign fronts, McGovern agreed to debate Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York in Florida between March 8 and 14, and Muskie denounced publisher William Loeb of the Manchester Union Leader, New Hampshire's only statewide morning newspaper, for "vicious attacks" on him and Mrs. Muskie.

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole said Muskie's emotional response to the Loeb editorials indicated Muskie "lacks a stability" to be president. Loeb said Muskie made a "very serious tactical error." Humphrey appealed to the Agriculture Department to release $1 billion in feed grains subsidies to provide farmers with needed cash at planting time.

Humphrey in a speech prepared for the National Convention of the Farmers Union in Houston today said $2 billion is going to be spent in July anyway, and that early release of the funds would "have a significant effect on the rural economy at a time when it desperately needs help."

Moleskin Eyebrows Were A Favorite

DETROIT (UPI) — Women who find it difficult to master all the latest makeup techniques could have it worse.

According to "The Queer, the Quaint and the Quizzical," published by Gale Research, the ladies of the court of Louis XV of France wore eyebrows made of mole skin.
